PEMBERTON BLDG., PEMBERTON SQ

TELEPHONE [illegible] HAYMARKET

BOSTON, MASS. August 28, 1906.

Hon. Josiah Quincy,

Dear Sir,-

Letter received. As no candidate opposes my nomination the suggestion of arbitration is absurd.

The only contest now possible is that about to take place between Guild and Moran.

I send you a Moran campaign button the wearing of which will be indisputable proof of your recognition of the right of the democratic masses to govern themselves in defiance of dictation by self constituted bosses.

Truly yours,

John B. Moran

FAC-SIMILE OF MORAN'S LETTER TO QUINCY DECLINING ARBITRATION

'NOTHING TO ARBITRATE' ---MORAN TO QUINCY

"There Is No Democratic Candidate Opposed to Me," Says District Attorney in Response to Chairman's Open Letter — Campaign Button Accompanies Letter.

District Attorney John B. Moran will not permit William Jennings Bryan or any other man to decide whether or not he shall be a candidate for Governor of Massachusetts.

That is his answer to Josiah Quincy, chairman of the Democratic State Committee. When Quincy found that Henry M. Whitney would not stay in the fight against Moran, and former Governor Douglas could not be lured into it, he wrote the District Attorney a long letter, asking him to let Bryan act as arbiter between the man who holds the nomination in his hand and the small clique of politicians for which the chairman is spokesman.

When Whitney was in the field and was touted by Quincy as the best representative leader of the Massachusetts Democracy, Mr. Moran suggested Bryan as arbitrator between them. Mr. Whitney would not agree.

District-Attorney Moran, in his reply to Quincy, dated to-day, points out the latter's inconsistency. When there was a contest and an arbiter might have had something to decide, the small Quincy-Gaston faction would not heed to any such suggestion. Now that Whitney has quit and the Quincy game of bluff has failed, Mr. Moran declines to let any one decide whether he shall relinquish a well-won victory.

Moran's letter is as follows:

Hon. Josiah Quincy

Dear Sir: Letter received. As no candidate opposes my nomination, suggestion of arbitration is absurd.

The only contest now possible is that about to take place between Guild and Moran.

I send you a Moran campaign button, the wearing of which will be indisputable proof of your recognition of the right of the Democratic masses to govern themselves in defiance of dictation by self-constituted bosses. Truly yours

JOHN B. MORAN.

MORAN SURE SAYS MACHINE OFFICIAL

"The nomination for Governor ought as well be given to John B. Moran by the Democratic Convention, he'll get it any way, so what's the use?" is the way Daniel F. Buckley, secretary of the Democratic State machine, sized up the situation to a friend.

As a matter of fact the Gaston-Quincy element of the State machine is utterly demoralized. Quincy continues to look mysterious and make a pretence of appearing hopeful, but he has nothing tangible to offer his followers. He is simply sparring for time and hoping for something to turn up that will give him another fighting chance against Moran. He is dreaming that something may happen at the Bryan reception in New York that can be used to create a diversion in favor of the machine, and he is quietly making the bluff that, if all else fails, he has a legal trick up his sleeve that will injure Moran in the convention.

Hope Is Vanishing.

With Henry M. Whitney refusing to be a member of any delegation made up for the purpose of calling upon Ex-Governor William L. Douglas and urging him to announce that he will accept a nomination if it comes to him, but, on the contrary, insisting that Douglas should shed his mask and face the situation squarely as the machine candidate, one large hope of the resourceful Quincy has disappeared.

With Congressman John A. Sullivan declaring that he will not step in the breech and offer himself for the sacrifice, either as candidate for the nomination for Governor or Lieutenant-Governor, and at the same time denouncing his old friend Douglas for having shabbily treated his new friend Whitney, the candidate of last year, for Quincy has taken to the woods.

Slight Galls Thayer.

With ex-Congressman John R. Thayer of Worcester declining to seriously take the suggestion of himself as "the mark" for the machine and positively insisting that he will not lead the convention row, another

New Chapter in Scandal of Sinclair Trial

THIRD BRIBE ARREST

Israel Rue Held in $10,000 for Alleged Attempt to Tamper With Jury.

Taken Into Custody as Result of Testimony Given by William Washington.

A third arrest was made to-day in the case of the attempt to bribe Juror Alfred M. Green to vote for acquittal in the trial of "Dr." John Sinclair, charged with causing the death of Miss Annie Russell of Charlestown by illegal treatment.

The third man arrested is Israel Rue, a South End negro. He was brought into custody by a headquarters officer and taken to the office of District-Attorney John B. Moran to be questioned. The details of the charge against him were not given out.

Rue was arraigned, pleaded not guilty, and was held in $10,000 bail.

Rue was arrested principally on the testimony of William Washington, colored, another defendant in the alleged bribery case. Washington testified:

"I met Rue on Northampton street Thursday. He told me he wanted me to visit Juror Green and offer Green $50 to vote 'Not guilty' in the Sinclair case. Green refused, and told me he would see me in the morning. In the morning he told me he would not do it, but would give Sinclair a fair trial."

"Dr." Walter F. Clark, formerly star witness for the government against Sinclair, and now one of the bribery defendants, also said on the stand:

"Could Not See Them."

"I met Rue on Northampton street. Rue told me he wanted me to go to the Hotel Essex for him and simply tell two colored men I would see out front there, that he (Rue) could not see them that morning. I did so. That's all I know about Rue."

The hearing in the case of Clark and Washington came to an abrupt halt before Judge Harris in the Superior Criminal Court to-day, when Assistant District Attorney Joseph A. Dennison learned that Attorney Horace W. Gove had withdrawn as counsel for Clark.

Judge Harris suspended the case to give Clark time to secure counsel. Effort was begun immediately to get a lawyer to take up the defence which Attorney Gove surrendered. Later the case was resumed, without counsel being secured.

Clark said that all he knew was that he received a telephone message to-day at the jail that Attorney Gove had withdrawn and that another counsel would be provided. Someone told this to Assistant District-Attorney Dennison, who interrupted the examination of Juror Green to tell the court.

First Trial a Disagreement.

Clark was the star government witness against "Dr." Sinclair, who is charged with having caused the death of Miss Annie Russell of Charlestown by an illegal operation. The first trial of Sinclair resulted in a disagreement. A second trial was begun last week, "Dr." Clark being summoned from Montreal to testify again. Clark was relied on to testify again that Sinclair used him to take the girl from a house on Blue Hill avenue to her home in Charlestown.

On the second day of the trial Juror Alfred M. Green told Judge Harris that he had been offered $50 to vote in favor of acquittal. That afternoon Clark was taken into custody. Then Washington, the second bribery defendant, was arrested, charged with being connected with the alleged attempt at bribery. In an interview Mrs. Green told of a man coming to their house and offering her husband money.

Juror Green was the first witness to-day. He said:

"William Washington came to my house, asked to see me alone, and in my room told me that I could get $50 for voting for acquittal. I refused to have anything to do with it. He wanted to see me the next day. The next morning I reported the matter to the court and the trial was suspended."

GLADSTONE'S IDEAS REVIVED FOR HOME RULE

But Proposed British Bill Provides For One Leglislative Body.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The Daily Chronicle, forecasting the government's proposed devolution scheme for Ireland, says legislative union will not be touched and that Irish representation at Westminster and the powers of the imperial parliament will not be changed.

The chief feature will be the establishment of an Irish council at Dublin, directly elected, consisting of 103 members, the same as the Irish representation in the House of Commons, with the addition of forty-eight councillors directly elected for larger areas by electors having rateable value exceeding $100, peers and clergymen being also eligible.

This is almost the same as the legislative council and legislative assembly of Gladstone's bill; only they form one body and not two.

INJURED MAN IN RUNAWAY

While the Relief Hospital ambulance No. 6 was coming from Long Wharf early to-day with George Connors, who had been injured there, the vehicle collided with a caravan belonging to H. L. and G. P. Page of No. 45 Stillman street, driven by Thomas Warden of No. 24 Florence street. The frightened ambulance horse ran up State street to Broad street where the ambulance collided with another wagon, throwing the horse to the ground. Connors was transferred to another Relief Hospital ambulance. He was none the worst for his experience.

TRY MOTORMAN FOR MAN'S DEATH

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 28.—T. James Parker, the Chicago strike-breaker employed as a motorman on the Union Street Railroad, was arraigned in the First District Court to-day on a charge of manslaughter, in that he was responsible for the accident which resulted in the death of Henry Jolecoen, a North End baker, a month ago.

Parker pleaded not guilty to the charge and was released under $2,000 bail for a continuance of the case on September 15. President Crapo of the trolley company furnished the bail

EDUCATOR DIES, POISONED BY ACHING TOOTH

Providence Teacher, Lawyer and Orator Succumbs to Sudden Attack.

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 28.—George A. Littlefield, aged fifty-five, a prominent educator, lawyer and campaign orator, died suddenly to-day of blood poisoning following the extraction of an ulcerated tooth.

He was graduated from Harvard in 1870 and taught in Weymouth, Danvers and Malden, being first superintendent of schools at Malden and later superintendent at Lawrence and supervisor of Boston schools. He was principal of the Rhode Island State Normal School previous to entering the legal profession fifteen years ago. At one time he was principal of the Newport High School. He leaves a family of five children.

E. C. STANWOOD, BANKER, DEAD

News was received in Boston to-day of the death at Ventnor, Isle of Wight, England, of Eben C. Stanwood, of the firm of E. C. Stanwood & Co. of Boston.

Mr. Stanwood was born in Boston June 14, 1856. He was a graduate of the English High School in 1874, and was colonel of the school regiment. After leaving school he associated himself with banking houses and succeeded so well that eleven years ago he created the firm of E. C. Stanwood & Co., 45 Milk street, which has since been prominent in Boston financial circles.

He was a member of the Algonquin and Exchange Clubs. Mr. Stanwood traveled abroad often. A widow and two daughters survive him. He married Miss Wicher of Quincy.

FANATIC FIRES A CATHEDRAL

Special to the Boston American.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 28.—The Catholic Cathedral which was recently purchased from a Protestant congregation was destroyed by fire early to-day. It is believed that some fanatic fired the building. The loss is estimated at $100,000

HIBERNIANS IN GRAND PARADE IN FALL RIVER

"OLD GLORY" ENTWINED WITH FLAG OF ERIN OVER MARCHING HOST.

Special to the Boston American.

FALL RIVER, Aug. 28.—The big parade of the military branch of the Massachusetts divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which are here for their biennial convention, are marching through gaily decorated streets this afternoon, with deep rows of spectators applauding warmly on either side.

There are between four and five thousand in the line. On every hand, on public buildings and private houses are emblazoned the colors of Columbia and of Erin. The red, white and blue shows the patriotism of the delegates to America.

Given Royal Welcome.

The green of old Ireland shows that love of the mother country which ever lives in the breast of the Celt. With impartial interest the citizens, Catholic and Protestant alike, have used both national designs generously to show their kindly welcome for the Hibernians.

The men in the parade line, in their attractive uniforms, present a splendid appearance. There is equal applause, or even more enthusiastic if possible, for the feminine delegates to the Ladies' Auxiliary, who are riding in carriages. At the successive greetings the women respond with bows and smiles.

A special greeting is given some of the more distinguished members. Chief among these is Matthew Cummings of Boston, the newly-elected National President, who was elevated to the premier office in the Hibernians at the recent national convention in Saratoga. The election of Mr. Cummings was regarded as a personal triumph by every New England and Massachusetts member, and his appearance along the route is the signal for outbursts of handclapping and waving of hats and handkerchiefs.

National President Cummings heads the parade as chief marshal. Mounted on a spirited horse he is attended by the following mounted aids: Colonel John McCarthy, John Rogers, John Dillon, John H. Sullivan, Dr. John P. Jackson, Daniel J. Sullivan, James Brazil, Michael F. Sullivan, Patrick McDermott.

The roster of the parade:

Platoon of police.
Chief Marshal National President Matthew Cummings of Boston.
Mounted staff.
St. Mary's Staff.
First Hibernian Regiment of Boston, Colonel John O'Leary commanding.
Fall River Band.
Second Hibernian Regiment of Fall River.
Detached companies, A. O. H.
Fife and drum corps.
Worcester County detached military companies, Hugh Maguire, commander.
Gardner Company, First Battalion unattached companies, William M. Byrne, commander.
Fitchburg Company, First Battalion unattached companies, Captain J. J. O'Connor commanding.
Military Division unattached companies, P. J. Skelton, C. Q. Ward, James McCarthy and Jeremiah Sullivan commanding.
Delegates and scattered companies.
Vanguard of police.

Clean-Cut Manoeuvres.

The military companies in the parade wear dark blue uniforms with green facings. These contrast very prettily with the black uniforms of the regular companies. The soldierly effect is increased by the side arms borne by the military contingent.

All branches have been drilled till they are quite expert. They keep step, wheel and execute the other manoeuvres necessary to a street parade in clean-cut and precise manner, which adds much to the spectacular effect of the parade.

After the parade has been reviewed by National President Matthew Cummings and Mayor John T. Coughlin and other city officials, the various visiting companies will be escorted to the division headquarters of the local organizations, to be entertained until to-night's banquet.

Mayor Coughlin to Speak.

Mayor Coughlin will speak at to-night's banquet, and National President Cummings and other prominent members are expected to add to the programme.

The day's programme for the Hibernians to-day began with celebration of solemn high mass in the pro-cathedral.

The actual business of the biennial conventions of the Hibernians and of the Ladies' Auxiliary will not begin until to-morrow. Elections of officers in both bodies are naturally among the principal business in hand. The candidates for State officers are already appearing, and there is prospect of some lively electioneering.

Candidates for President.

One of the leading candidates for State president is John J. Rogers of Worcester. Worcester and Worcester county have large delegations, and the Rogers wing feels confident of landing his man.

But the Middlesex County delegates, who comprise a large block of voters, are out for their County President, John F. Donnelly. Patrick F. Cannon of Clinton, one of the best known members in the State, does not deny, either, that he is a candidate, though his boom has not been so aggressively developed so far as those of the other candidates.

Terence O'Donnell is slated for State vice-president and no opposition has appeared so far. Daniel J. Reidy is out for State treasurer.

While the men are working for their respective candidates, the fair members of the Ladies Auxiliary are equally adept in booming their candidates for auxiliary honors. The principal contest so far appears to be for the office of auxiliary vice-president. Mrs. Burke of Middlesex and Miss Tierney of Westfield are rivals for the election. The State presidency will probably go to Miss Elisa Sheehan, Miss Katherine E. Sheridan of Randolph having specifically denied that she is a candidate against Miss Sheehan.

HUNGER LED TO HIS ARREST

John Phillips alias John Merrick, of Yonkers, N. Y., was held under $500 bail before Justice Clark in the Dorchester District Court to-day, to answer a charge of breaking, entering and larceny. Phillips was arrested in the house of John J. Richards, No. 325 Savin street, Dorchester, yesterday afternoon.

Phillips's arrest was brought about by footprints on the floors of the house. The marks lead to a closet and the intruder was found behind a rubber coat.

In court Phillips pleaded guilty. He said that he had served fifteen months in the Elmira State Prison. He reached Boston Sunday night and went to the cellar of the Richards house to sleep. Yesterday he was hungry and went up stairs for something to eat.

TRUSTEES TO FORCE PROBE OF ALMSHOUSE

War With Mayor Over Supt. English to Bring Forth Startling Revelations.

CITY COUNCIL TO JUDGE

An investigation of the Boston almshouse and hospital on Long Island, exceeding in interest even the celebrated investigation of the same institution in 1903, and which it is promised will result in startling revelations concerning the financial and moral conduct of the institution by Superintendent James F. English, will be the probable outcome of the war between Mayor Fitzgerald and Superintendent English on the one side and the deposed Board of Trustees of Pauper Institutions on the other.

Urged by their friends that they cannot afford to let the quarrel stand as it is at present, W. Prentiss Parker, Walter Hunnewell, Bernard J. Rothwell, Dr. David D. Scannell, Miss Frances R. Morse and Miss Maud M. Rockwell, who were summarily dismissed from office by Mayor Fitzgerald on August 9, because they refused to rescind their vote discharging English, will, it was stated to-day, request at the next meeting of the Board of Aldermen on September 10, the appointment of an investigating committee of the City Council.

To Probe Board Charges.

The committee will be asked to investigate and report on the truthfulness of the board's charges against English that he was "disobedient, neglectful and persistenly untruthful," and also their charge against the Mayor that he "in defiance of the law interfered with the management of the department by the board of trustees." Alderman Tilton S. Bell stands ready to offer an order for an investigation. "Worn out by fighting grafters," as he expressed it, he left on a vacation to-day, but will return in time for the next meeting of the Board of Aldermen. Before leaving, he said:

"Something should be done about this matter at once. The deposed board was composed of ladies and gentlemen of unimpeachable standing in the community, and they owe it to themselves not to let the matter drop. Mayor Fitzgerald should not be allowed to get away with any such raw deal as he is trying to play at present."

That the trustees are now aroused to a pitch where they will demand an investigation there is little doubt. The report ordered by Mayor Fitzgerald of John B. Martin, the acting head of the institution, was the last straw. Bernard J. Rothwell, one of the deposed trustees, says:

"We will welcome an investigation before a proper tribunal, but do not care to present our case to a packed jury."

Will Submit Case to City Council.

Whether the deposed trustees could obtain a fair hearing before a joint committee of the Board of Aldermen and Common Council, both of which are controlled absolutely by the Mayor, or whether either branch would pass an order for an investigation in opposition to the wishes of the Mayor are matters of conjecture, but the trustees, it can be stated, will put it up to the City Council, and in the event of their failure to secure a fair inquiry, will gladly leave it to the people to judge who is in the wrong, the Mayor or the trustees.

In the event of a fair and impartial inquiry, friends of the trustees state that a condition of affairs at the institution will be revealed which will not only demand the retirement of English and several male employes, but also at least one woman holding a responsible position.

NEW SPELLING FAD SWEEPS OVER COUNTRY

Orders for "Simplified" Primers Swamp Publishers Since President's Announcement.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—President Roosevelt's simplified spelling reform has taken hold with a vengeance and many business firms have adopted it in their advertisements and correspondence. A rush for simplified spelling primers has struck the offices of the simplified spelling association and officials are unable to supply the demand. The printer has been ordered to prepare 15,000 extra copies.

John Wanamaker has adopted the new spelling system and his advertising agents have a spelling bee every day. Advertisements of the Wanamaker firm contain several of the new spelled words.

Robert E. Lee, editor of the St. Louis Grocer, has written the association that he has adopted the new spelling. Publishers of school books will doubtless try to have the new spelling adopted in schools, as it would necessitate the publication of millions of new books. The change in this direction, if made, will hardly be inaugurated this year.

A dispatch from Oyster Bay announces that Secretary Loeb is using the simplified spelling in all the communications sent out from the President's office. The new order of things was begun yesterday soon after the secretary received an official copy of the much-talked-of 300 words from Professor Brander Matthews, who heads Mr. Carnegie's simplified spelling board.

ASKS POLICE TO FIND HUSBAND

Scarcely able to walk, ill and burdened down by her two weeks' old baby, Mrs. Frederick W. Ferrin appeared in the Cambridge police headquarters to-day, begging that the police use every effort to locate her missing husband. With tears in her eyes and her voice so broken that she could hardly make herself understood, the woman told the police that Ferrin had left her on August 8, two days before the child was born.

Since that time, she says, she has been cared for by kind neighbors who live near her at No. 540 Franklin street, Cambridge. The little money she had left is gone, she said, and she is still dependent upon the generosity of her neighbors. Ferrin is a horseshoer and has been working little of late. Their domestic life has been happy, Mrs. Ferrin asserts, their only trial being that Ferrin did not have steady work.

The Cuban Junta Charges:

THAT President Palma holds his office as a result of force of arms and the grossest election frauds.

THAT Palma was $8,000 in debt when he was inaugurated four years ago, and that now he is worth at least $500,000.

THAT Cuba never will be free unless the United States oversees an election and eliminates fraud.

PALMA OFFERS PARDON AFTER DEFEAT FOR THE INSURGENTS

President Palma, of Cuba, and his family, on the porch of his house at Central Valley, N. Y., which they occupied before he was elected chief executive of the republic, and on which he had an $8,000 mortgage, which he is said to have wiped out since he became President.

President Proposes Amnesty for All Rebels Who Lay Down Their Arms.

Revolutionists Under Guzman Are Put to Rout by Colonel Valle.

HAVANA, Aug. 28.—In a decisive battle a body of rebels under General Guzman were put to rout by the Government forces under Colonel Valle yesterday, leaving over a score of dead on the field and many more injured. The battle took place near Cienfuegos.

It is reported to-day that the rebel forces defeated by Valle were but a handful of men acting as a vanguard to the main body of over 1,000 men under Guzman. Both forces are still in the same vicinity, and it is believed that to-day Guzman will renew the fight with all his men. It is not known how many men Valle has with him. It is but a detachment of rural guards and volunteers.

To-day President Palma is issuing proclamations offering pardon to rebels who will lay down their arms. The effect of this move on the part of the administration is yet to be seen. The government declares the backbone of the revolution is broken.

Guerra Would Arbitrate.

Arbitration of the troubles which led to the revolution, on the basis of a new presidential election, with the United States as arbitrator, is desired by Colonel Pino Guerra, the insurgent leader, as a means of ending the insurrection. Guerra has a force of 2,000 men near Pinar del Rio. If the new election is not given Guerra says his force will stay out indefinitely.

Guerra blames President Palma for having conducted the last election in such a manner that the people had no chance to express their wishes.

If there is to be arbitration, Guerra declared that it must be the United States or some other outside power. The insurgents will not trust a promise from Palma and will never accepet any offer to compromise with him, he said.

In spite of the offers of pardon the government is to-day unloading several rapid fire guns, rifles, revolvers, ammunition and other war supplies from a steamer which arrived yesterday from New York. More material from New Orleans is expected, and a vessel load of horses is said to be on the way from Texas.

For several days it has been stated that Guzman's force of insurgents, which was variously estimated at from 200 up to 1,000, contemplated an attack on Cienfuegos. Valle, with a detachment of rural guards and volunteers, was dispatched to Cienfuegos for the purpose of engaging Guzman and breaking up the bands. The encounter resulted in the worst disaster which the insurgents have sustained up to this time.

Guerra, from his camp in Pinar del Rio, declares that he is determined the last presidential election shall be annulled before there can be peace in Cuba. Guerra's force of 2,000 men is well armed and supplied with ammunition and food. Their greatest drawback now is lack of money, but the people of the estern part of Pinar del Rio are furnishing them with all the supplies needed, taking in return therefor orders on the "Cuban government," and, in many cases, refusing to accept any consideration.

Say Leaders Surrender.

Senator Dolz of the Moderate party, who was in conference with President Palma until midnight, stated early this morning that practically all the insurgent leaders of consequence, except Pino Guerra, had signified their willingness to disband their men if all were positively guaranteed immunity for their insurrectionary acts. On account of information of the insurgents' willingness to quit there will be no further enlistments.

RAPID-FIRE GUNS AND WAR SUPPLIES NOW AT HAVANA

HAVANA, Aug. 28.—Government forces to-day are engaged in unloading rapid fire guns, rifles and other war supplies which arrived yesterday on a vessel from New York. Another vessel has brought a supply from New Orleans.

As a result of a meeting at Havana last night many congressmen inscribed themselves as volunteers to the government.

Rural guards have arrested several prominent liberals, including two editors of Mansanillo, province of Santiago, who are charged with conspiracy. It is said that they were about to organize an insurgent band in the Province of Santiago.

The chief of the secret service has formally charged Senator Morua del Gado with being one of the initiators of the insurrection, and with being at present one of its chief supporters. The chief claims that Del Gado led the late Quentin Bandera to revolt, against the latter's better judgment. Del Gado is the only negro Senator.

"NOTHING NOW TO ARBITRATE"---MORAN

hope of Quincy has faded away. One month ago Thayer might have consented to attempt the job, but he does not like the way he has been passed over since then for men considered more available.

Mr. Thayer has an idea that he is about as big and as popular a Democrat as there is in the State, and the slighting he has received galls him. His friends say he will not be a candidate for anything this year, no matter how earnestly he may be urged.

Chairman Lyman of the executive committee of the State machine, faithful mirror of Chief Quincy, is making a subdued but brave show of courage. He admits that the outlook is dark just at the present time for the machine, but he expects that, after the New York reception to Bryan, there will come something of good cheer from out the gloom.

Douglas Roundly Abused.

He maintains that there will be a candidate against Moran in the convention, but he is very hoarse when he speaks about politics nowadays and his predictions are uttered in low whispers. Colonel A. C. Drinkwater, also of the executive committee, in whose favor Quincy says he will resign as chairman of the machine if Moran will only take himself out of the field, is the boldest talker at the State headquarters. He loudly insists to all comers that there is only one candidate in the Democratic eye, and his name is John B. Moran.

And the man who is being roundly abused by all elements of the State Democracy is the man, who, two years ago, was hailed as the savior of the party, William Lewis Douglas of Brockton.

BIG WINTHROP LABOR DAY FETE

Winthrop citizens are to-day preparing for the great field day which they are planning to hold at Ingalside Park on next Monday, Labor Day. The leading men of Winthrop are in charge of the affair, and it is promised to be one of the most enjoyable public entertainments in years. For the morning a complete program of athletic sports has been arranged, and in the afternoon, while the Tenth United States Artillery Band plays, a baseball game will furnish excitement, for the regular Winthrop team will cross bats with an "all star" aggregation, picked for the occasion. E. P. Keany, No. 178 Winthrop street, is receiving entry fees for the events, which amount to but twenty-five cents per contest.

Frank P. Crandon, secretary of the board of trustees of the Garrett Biblical Institute, in a formal statement admits a shortage.

Authorities of the university and institute are said to have arranged with Dr. Sheppard to take over his property and interests in order to fulfil a moral obligation to the holders of notes.

Real estate ventures of Dr. Sheppard are said to have been responsible for difficulties.

It is alleged that money was obtained from persons who were under the impression that they were lending it to the university or to the institute.

ANTI-POLITICS

Now is the time for the independent candidate for Governor. The independent candidate can also rely upon almost every vote of the Prohibition party. The people are sick and tired of political bosses who have robbed them so long. The daily increasing number of little politicians has grown so large that the crumbs of graft which fall from the hands of the big ones will not go around and hundreds of these have been compelled to work for a living, therefore will vote for the independent candidate.

Every honest working man must now realize that the political bosses are NO GOOD; that their promises are NO GOOD and that we will be better protected in the hands of a Governor who is not surrounded and controlled by this horde of professionals and the lawyers of public franchise corporations; a Governor who will WORK, not TALK; a Governor who will use his power and influence to give every farmer near an electric street car line all the electric light he wants at 3c. per kilowatt; a Governor who will work to have the Elevated Railway Company furnish light and power to the citizens of Boston, and everywhere that their cars run through the streets, at 3c. per kilowatt. No mistake about this. Please mark it down in your hat, because 3c. is the price, and the only honest price for electric light, not 15c.

Fifty cents is the price for gas, and we want a Governor capable of making it 50 cents, if not less. We have not had, nor will we ever get, a Governor of this kind until all the present political grafters are wiped out and the honest people of Massachusetts organize, make a business agreement for the protection of all the people, and live up to it. We want a Governor who will make no more judges of politicians. Politicians may decry and newspapers, owned and controlled by the men who furnish money to pay grafters, may try to scorn and ridicule these facts, but the history of the last few years, acts of the men who appoint and control every committee at the State House, men who live upon the credulity of the public and are sure to control, each year, a majority of the Legislature, is so strong upon the minds of all honest persons that it is only necessary to get together to rid the city and Commonwealth of these most dangerous and undesirable citizens. The political mortgage on the city of Boston for more than one hundred million dollars can be reduced instead of increased millions of dollars each year if the professionals can be driven out and compelled to work for an honest living with the rest of us. Don't think for a moment that any but an independent man can get the votes of the Prohibition party while the gang of Boston heelers and their paid agents throughout the State are yelling Boston politics for their Prohibition candidate.

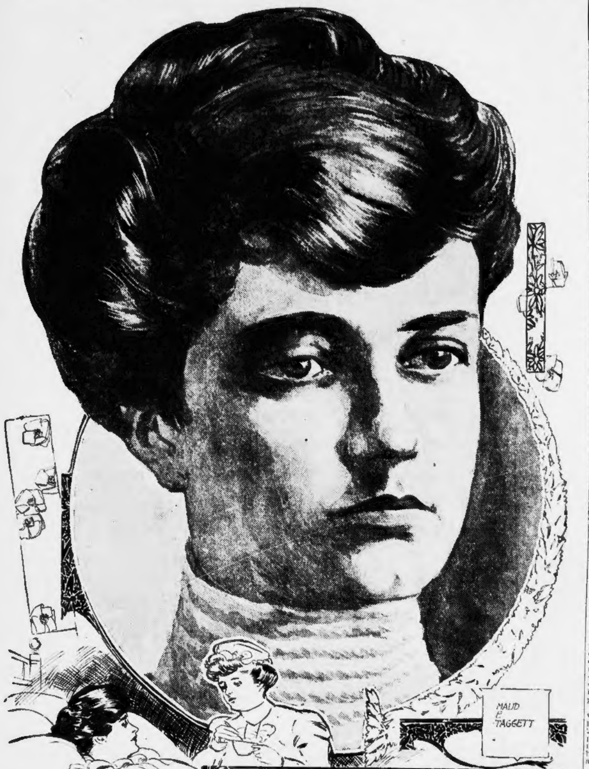
BANGOR SOCIETY DOCTOR FACES CHARGE OF CAUSING GIRL'S DEATH



WILLIAM H.H. BRIGGS

DOCTOR AND DEAD GIRL IN BANGOR CASE.

Physician Witness for Prosecution Admits Approval of Accused Man's Treatment.

Crowd in Court Room Listens With Breathless Interest to Testimony.

Special to the Boston American.

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 28.—In the presence of hundreds of people, many of whom were women well known in society, the trial of Dr. William H. H. Briggs, the Bangor society physician, on a charge of murder in causing the death o fMiss Maud B. Taggett of Masardis in this city last February, was resumed to-day. From Dr. Charles H. McCurdy, an equally prominent Bangor physician, the star witness for the prosecution, was wrung, on cross-examination, the admission that he had approved the treatment the defendant had given the girl.

Dr. McCurdy was the first witness called by the prosecution to-day. Dr. Briggs maintained the same indifferent and perfectly cool manner which characterized his first appearance in court yesterday when the jury was empannelled. While entirely in possession of himself, the doctor took a keen and acute interest in everything that might vitally affect himself and many a time a low and earnest consultation was held with Judge Louis C. Stearns, who is defending him.

Interest in Trial.

Dr. McCurdy took the stand in the midst of a breathless silence in the crowded Supreme Judicial Court room. Justice Powers took his seat exactly at the hour for opening court, and the call for order was almost unnecessary so strained is the interest in every word that is uttered in the trial.

Dr. McCurdy told of his having been called to attend Maud B. Taggett. The summons came at 4 o'clock on the morning of Wednesday, February 28. She was lying ill in the rooms of Mrs. Belle M. Wesley in Main street. The doctor said that his diagnosis of her case showed that she was suffering from blood poisoning or septic peritonitis.

That same night he was called again to her bedside. This was at 6 o'clock. Then is was plain to him, he testified, that the young woman could not recover. He testified that he attended the autopsy on Thursday afternoon, the girl having died that same morning.

Dr. McCurdy said that he believed that Miss Taggett's death had been due to septic poisoning, the result of a crime.

Cross-Examined Closely.

Judge Stearns then cross-examined the witness for the prosecution vigorously. He asked is natural causes might have resulted in the death of Miss Taggett.

"It could," was his reply.

He was asked if he had discovered any positive evidence of illegal treatment.

"None whatever," said the doctor.

"You were first called to attend the girl in the ordinary way, were you not, doctor?" asked Judge Stearns.

"I was."

"Did you approve of Dr. Briggs's treatment?" demanded Counsel Stearns.

"Yes, sir."

"There was not attempt at concealment in the physician's attitude?"

"There was not," declared Dr. McCurdy.

Then, on redirect examination, Dr. McCurdy said that it is possible but not probable for natural causes to be followed by blood poisoning.

Following is the personnel of the jury in the order of their being sworn: Arthur W. Stubbs, farmer, Hampden; A. M. Soule, farmer, Etna; George F. Dodding, milliman, Stetson; Charles W. George, farmer, Hampden; E. F. Robinson, carpenter, Carmel; Landsey J. Boker, farmer, Lincoln; W. H. Dillingham, farmer, Newburgh; J. F. Haskell, blacksmith, Garland; C. F. Colbath, machinist, Howland; B. R. Bradford, railroading, Carmel; Fred Jones, farmer, Bradford; Charles M. Gerry, farmer, Corinth.

SALARY GOES TO CHARITY IF ELECTED

Independent Republican to Run for Senate to Discourage Professional Politician

WILL SUPPORT MORAN

Declaring that he wants to be State Senator merely to discourage political office seeking by men who make a profession of livelihood of the office and ... the financial benefit to be derived, Thomas S. Bates of No. 2 Sayin Hill street, Dorchester, in announcing his candidacy, declares that he will give away every cent of the $750 salary to charities if elected.

Mr. Bates, who has been a resident of Ward 21 for over four years, is an independent Republican in politics. He is a large real estate owner and a heavy tax payer. He says:

"I am tired of seeing one ring of men run Ward 21. There are just a row of them, and they just hand the offices around among themselves. Fred Batson, chairman of the Republican City Committee, has been a councilman three times, twice a State representative and an Alderman once. Edwin Weber has been a councilman three times, a State representative once, and now he wants to go to the State Senate. The others have like records.

Would Give Salary to Charity.

"I am not after the State Senatorship on account of the financial feature of the position. If elected, I will give every cent of the $750 salary attaching to it to charity, to be distributed by a committee of my constituency, irrespective of race or religion. I want the office because I want to discourage professional office holding as a profession or livelihood.

"The gang who run Republican politics in Ward 21 are candidates annually for any and all offices, and the fact that no other Republican in the ward has held any office for eight years is evidence that these men have no desire to consult the wishes of any other Republican.

"The politics of Ward 21 has run down to a very low ebb. A few years ago several parties who manipulated politics in that ward then were sent to prison by reason of election frauds.

"It is my intention to stump the district from an express wagon which I shall hire for the purpose. Out of deference to the wishes of two hundred citizens of Ward 21 who have requested me to run for the office of State Senator I shall, if elected, pledge myself wholly to the interests of the people and be willing to surrender my office on demand of my constituents if I am ever proven guilty of withholding my support from any measure intended for the public good or if I support the demands of trusts or corporations.

"I have no machine, no organization. I will make a personal appeal from the express wagon to the voters of Wards 20 and 21. I will not file papers until after the primaries, as I am not seeking any party nomination, because I know that I would be defeated by this gang, their henchmen and a few dollars.

Will Support Moran.

"I am unqualifiedly in favor of John B. Moran for Governor and will give him my endorsement and free support. Although a Republican, I will speak for Mr. Moran on the stump. I believe him to be an honest official, and I will leave it to the votes to decide if I am not right in supporting him.

"In my candidacy I have been offered the support of many Democrats, and I will also get a strong vote from the Republicans. The Prohibitionists, many of them, will vote for me, not because I am a Prohibitionist, but because of the other principles which I uphold, including their candidate for Governor."

Mr. Bates was a gold miner for thirty years in Colorado and California, and is independent financially. He was a member of the California State Senate and a member for the Territorial Legislature of 1884 in Washington. He has never been a candidate for office in Boston before.

Girls Must Fit Into Spaces Between the Machines or Give Way to Those Who Can.

Bureau of Engraving and Printing Bars Plump Ones; They Take Too Much Room.

Special to the Boston American.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Pity the poor short and fat girl. She can't work in Uncle Sam's confidential Bureau of Engraving and Printing, where the United States money is made.

The fashionable figure at present, as every woman knows, is the lithe, willowy one—practically flat all around, as one gallant bachelor has expressed it.

Uncle Sam is not so much a devotee of fashion in this instance, however, as he is a practical employer. You see, many of the machines in the money-manufacturing bureau are so high that a short girl can't work them.

Again, the machines, for lack of space, are crowded into narrow niches around the room. Hence the anti-fat edict.

The new rules of the bureau contain the following startling specifications:

"No woman under four feet ten and one-half inches will be employed, women above medium height being preferred.

"No woman of more than sixteen inches width in the hips will be employed.

"The bust must not exceed thirteen inches in depth."

Fat Girls Are Rueful.

Is that personal enough for you?

Since these notices have been posted the fat girls in the bureau are surveying their plump outlines ruefully. They will be relieved of their places if they don't train down. As for the short girls, they are in despair, for they don't see, no matter how much thought they take, how they can add even a quarter inch to their stature.

The "plump and comfortable-looking" girl, as the elder Weller described Mary, the housemaid, in Pickwick Papers, would have small chance with the stern director of the bureau. What he wants is the tall and lean girl, the taller and more lath-like the better. No matter how pretty and rounded a fair applicant may be, if she doesn't come up to or within the specifications, the director has no use for her. The machines are there, and if the girl can't fit the machines, why, that's not the fault of the Government.

No pudgy girls need apply. They might possibly get stuck in one of those narrow machine spaces and not be able to get out. And what would the director do then.

Work at Reduction.

Of course a short girl might stand on a stool or a block, but that would be too much trouble, when there are plenty of tall girls. Also, it would jar the harmony of the Government standard of height.

The girls are now taking their measurements anxiously, and there is said to be a vast deal of self-reduction practised now by the fat ones. It's no joke for the girl who has been endowed with rounded outlines to have to qualify for the sixteen-inch hip measure. The bureau has hitherto been graced by girls of all heights and all weights, a pleasing variety of femininity that ranged through the whole gamut of form and figure. As soon as the new rules get down to working order the bureau will present a dismal sameness of lanky, rangy females, looking like a job lot of saplings.

Those are the kind who can make money for Uncle Sam.

INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE STARTS IN FITCHBURG

FITCHBURG, Aug. 28.—With every member united with all the others in the determination to make the organization in this city one of the strongest in the State, the Fitchburg branch of the Independence League of Massachusetts was organized last evening. Enthusiasm marked the meeting, and the speeches rang with determination to leave no stone unturned that could be moved in the interest of independence in politics.

Those who had determined to form a league met in the parlor of the Balmoral Hotel, and neither the oppressive humidity nor the sharp thunder shower that broke early in the evening prevented an attendance that taxed the capacity of the room to the utmost.

"The political machines have had their way in this State until it makes no difference whether you get your orders from the Lodge-Crane-Guild machine or the Belmont-Ryan-Quincy-Gaston machine; you are working for the same Gas Trust, Elevated Trust, Boston & Maine-New Haven combination," was the way one of the speakers put the sentiment.

"No Show With the Bosses."

"We know we have got no show with the Republicans, and we know equally well that we have no hope with the State Street Democracy. We must act for ourselves, independently, for the best interests of the working people," was the way another—a labor union representative—stated the case.

Every man present seemed to have made up his mind before coming to the meeting that in the Independence League lay the solution of the difficulties which he desired to overcome, for without exception the speakers endorsed the movement without reservation. Among the citizens at the meeting were Democrats and Republicans, business men and workingmen.

State Secretary Davis gave a brief outline of the aims and principles of the League and answered a number of questions.

President William Degnan of the Central Labor Union spoke briefly in favor of the organization. "I heartily approve of the principles of this movement, and am confident that only by such action as this can the workingman hope to secure those rights to which he, as a citizen, is entitled," he said. "We have seen, during the past year, what regard the Republican party has for the laboring classes in the action taken on many measures proposed for the benefit of the workingman.

"This was especially shown in the overtime bill, which was killed treacherously, as a result of which the chief factor in its slaughter was rewarded by a place on the Superior Bench. We know, too, that we cannot expect anything from the machine which would give us Whitney or some similar representative of those interests which make a bartering place out of the State House. Our only hope is in some such movement as this. I was an active worker in the 'flying wedge' which carried Fitchburg against John L. Bates. As good work can be done this year, I am sure, and I shall be glad to enlist in the movement."

John P. Holloran, a weaver, expressed his belief in independence in politics and his conviction that only by organization could reforms be accomplished. "The platform on which District Attorney Moran of Boston has said he would run strikes me as being about the platform the common man in Massachusetts wants to see put into effect," he said. "Yet we know that the Republicans will not carry out any such ideas, while the Democratic leaders are endeavoring in every way they can to discredit Mr. Moran and the ideas that he advocates. I believe in the things that this league stands for. I want to see one formed here right away."

Councilman John M. O'Neil endorsed the league and promised that he would work with all his energies for its success.

One People Have Waited For.

John H. Murphy said that he believed this movement was one the people have been waiting for. "We have all heard of the strength it has attained in New York," he said. "Why should Massachusetts be behind that State in progress? I believe the Independence League can become as great a factor in politics in the Bay State as anywhere else. The people are sick of government by corporations and bosses."

Remarks of the same tenor were made by D. W. Teehan, Joseph G. Flynn, Mathew Nolan, Peter B. Kielty and others.

It was then unanimously voted that those present organize as the Fitchburg branch of the Independence League of Massachusetts and proceed to the election of provisional officers. The following were elected:

President, D. W. Teehan; secretary, John H. Murphy; executive committee, chairman and member-at-large, Councilman John M. O'Neil; first ward, President William Degnan of the Central Labor Union; second ward, Joseph Murphy; third ward, Peter B. Kielty.

It was voted that the executive committee proceed at once to secure members in the city, organizing the league by wards and districts. It is probable that a mass meeting of citizens, at which the principles of the league may be explained by able speakers, will be held within a fortnight or so.

HUB ACTRESS SECRETLY WEDS GERMAN BARON

Miss Blanche Weston, Divorced From Dr. W. L. Mallaber, Is Now Baroness Lofeld.

MARRIED IN NEW YORK

Through a statement made by her mother, it became known to-day that Miss Blanche Weston Jewett, formerly of Boston and Lowell, had been secretly married to Baron August Franz Eugene Off von Waldeck Lofeld, in New York, on July 19. Miss Jewett was well known several years ago as a member of the "Nancy Brown" company, and was considered a promising actress.

Her marriage in the "Little Church Around the Corner" in New York was solemnized by the pastor. After the wedding the couple went to the Catskills, and later returned to New York, where they are now. They will said for Germany about September 12.

Miss Jewett was forerly the wife of Dr. William L. Mallaber, a graduate of Harvard Medical School and later a newspaper man in San Francisco. Shortly before the earthquake in San Francisco the couple separated, and afterward were divorced, Mrs. Mallaber taking her maiden name. After the divorce she came to Boston, where she lived with her mother, later going to New York, where she expected to become a member of "The Clansman" company.

It was while she was in New York that she met the baron, and after a short courtship married him, without notifying her friends.

The Baroness von Waldeck was born in Lowell and was well known in Boston. At an early age she went on the stage and had great success in playing children's roles.

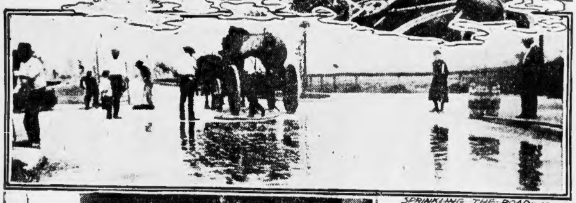
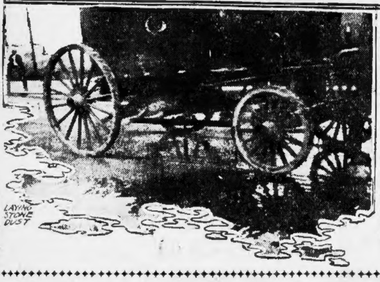
Oil and Tar on State Boulevards For Autos

LAYING TAR BBL





HOW STATE ROADS ARE BEING DRESSED.

Photographs by Boston American Staff Photographer.

Metropolitan Park Commissioners Experiment in Methods of Protecting Road Surfaces.

Experiments are being conducted by the Metropolitan Park Commissioners with a view of determining the best way of laying dust and protecting the surface of the boulevard roads. The advent of the motor car has caused, to a certain degree, at least, a revolution in road construction and maintenance.

The Metropolitan Park Commissioners, realizing that something must be done in this direction, have gone ahead with experiments of their own. These they are conducting; one along the Revere Beach boulevard, from Second street to Ferry street, and the other between Wellington and Revere parkway bridges on the Fellsway.

On the Revere Beach boulevard "tarina," as it is known, is being adopted under the directions of the engineer and Chief West of the Metropolitan police. The roadway was first swept clean to rock bed. Then a layer of molten tar was laid, the tar sinking four or five inches into the road bed. Before the tar had become cold a heavy layer of stone dust was thrown over the road. Ten or twelve hours later this was rolled down by a steam roller, the dust thereby becoming firmly imbeded in the road, making a thoroughly good surface, one free from dust, which should last for several years. This tarina will shed water like a duck and should, it is argued, keep the road free from dust and lengthen its life. The work was inaugurated about the middle of last week, and so far has proven successful.

The second experiment is that of oiling the roads with a special composition. The oil was applied by means of hose, being spread thickly to sink into the roads and hold the dust and surface together in firm embrace. This road now differs but little from that used in the Vanderbilt road race, or the oiled roads of California.

NO ICE CREAM POISONING CAN BE ALLOWED

—BOSTON HEALTH BOARD

Sanitary Inspectors Get Strict Orders to Prevent Danger at All Hazards.

ALL DEALERS ARE WARNED

Because of the wholesale ice cream poisoning tragedy in Newburyport, the regulations of the Boston Board of Health governing the manufacture of ice cream will be more rigidly enforced than ever, and in a talk to the seventeen sanitary inspectors of the Board of Health this morning, Dr. Samuel H. Durgin, chairman of the board, impressed this fact: "There must be no repetition of the Newburyport tragedy in Boston."

Comprehensive and adequate as were the regulations issued by the Board of Health to the Boston ice cream manufacturers two weeks ago, every inspector of the sanitary divisions of the city will see to it that the sections of article IV. are rigidly adhered to.

Important Rules Laid Down.

Article IV. is as follows:

"Section 1. All cream, milk or skimmed milk, employed in the manufacture of ice cream, shall before use be kept at a temperature not higher than fifty degrees Fahrenheit.

"Section 2. No person, by himself or by his servant, or agent, or as the servant or agent of any other person, firm or corporation, shall in the city of Boston, sell, exchange or deliver, any ice cream which contains more than 500,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter.

"Section 3. No old or melted ice cream, or ice cream returned to a manufacturer from whatever cause, shall again be used in the preparation of ice cream."

The Board of Health's regulations for manufacturers of ice cream, issued on August 4, have been posted in all the places in Boston where ice cream is made. There is no doubt that the ice cream manufacturers will obey the rules of the Board of Health, for the persistent and merciless prosecution of the violators of the milk laws by the board has taught a well-learned lesson.

Millions of Gallons a Week.

Boston consumes millions of gallons of ice cream every week. There are thousands of places where the cream is made. Since the new regulations were first issued the sanitary inspectors have visited and inspected about 2,500 places, and there are probably 1,000 or 1,500 more in the city that will come in for inspection and regulation.

Samples of manufactured ice cream are taken in much the same manner that milk is secured. These samples are taken to the bacteriological laboratory of the Board of Health and the regular experts employed subject them to the usual tests. Where injurious matter is found, action will be brought against the dealer or manufacturer as in the case of impure milk.

The North End has been visited by the sanitary inspectors and hundreds of the "hoky-poky" places have been examined. As far as could be found, however, sanitary conditions were not flagrantly violated.

Thoroughness Enjoined

Dr. Durgin in his talk to the sanitary inspectors this forenoon impressed upon them the necessity of being thorough and painstaking in their inspection. The board, he pointed out, requires of manufacturers of ice cream that no cream shall be made or stored in the same building with horses or other animals, nor in rooms occupied for sleeping purposes.

Utensils used in the process of manufacture must be clean and sterilized, and persons engaged in the business must be cleanly dressed. Ice cream must be stored in a covered box or refrigerator, properly drained and cared for.

Dr. Durgin told a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter that he felt that ice cream was being manufactured in Boston under satisfactory conditions, and that the board would be able to cope with the situation successfully.

ALL CZAR'S OFFICIALS MARKED FOR DEATH

GOVERNMENT IN TERROR, REVIVES SPECTRE OF MILITARY DICTATORSHIP.

By Robert Crozier Long,
The American's Special Commissioner in Russia.

Special Cable to Boston American.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 28.—The reign of terror continues here. The existence of a widespread plot to kill all high officials, as boasted in the revolutionaries' proclamation Sunday, was confirmed yesterday by the murder in the Government square, Warsaw, of Acting Military Governor Vouliiarliarsky. He was shot from a window while in his carriage.

The proprietors of the leading St. Petersburg hotels received a friendly tip yesterday from the revolutionaries not to take in General Rennenkempf and Governor Kurloff of Minsk, who have been sentenced to death by the revolutionaries.

The latter warned the hotel men that if they received the condemned men their hotels would be shattered by bombs.

The leader of the Stolypin bomb throwers, though terribly wounded and writhing in torture, stoically refuses to reveal the identity of his accomplices. Every hour he smilingly gives the police inquisitors false tips where to find the accomplices and keeps the police busy on wild goose chases.

One of the terrorists captured Saturday night at Peterhoff, a man named Lukisnosky, of Moscow, had a bomb filled with ordinary black powder. It has developed the terrorists were not after the Emperor, but intended to explode a harmless bomb near the wall in order to entice General Trepoff out of the palace, when confederates would have assassinated him.

DEATH THREAT TO PRISONERS.

General Rennenkempf, who commanded a cavalry division of Kuropatkin's army in the Japanese war, and who now is Governor-General of Chita Province, issued a remarkable terrorist proclamation on March 14, in which he announced that if any attempt was made upon his life all the revolutionists then in prison in his jurisdiction would be executed within an hour.

Mutiny in the Black Sea.

A report reached St. Petersburg that Colonel Rioman of the Seminovsky Guard Regiment, had been assassinated at Luga, where he stopped while on his way to Warsaw to take up a position on the staff of General Skallon, Governor-General of Warsaw. The report has not yet been confirmed, though four officers are said to have left St. Petersburg to identify the body.

It is reported that news has reached St. Petersburg that twenty-one men belonging to the battleship Panteleimon, formerly the Kniaz Potemkine, on which a mutiny occurred last year, seized a cutter and landed on Berenzan Island, where Lieutenant Schmidt was executed, and planted a red flag there.

Meetings of seamen belonging to the Black Sea fleet are said to have been held at various places, and reinforcements of troops are reported to have been sent to Odessa and Sebastopol.

BLAME GOVERNMENT FOR BOMB CRUSADE BY REVOLUTIONISTS

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 28. The open campaign against the government which the social revolutionists inaugurated with the attempt on the life of Premier Stolypin Saturday and the assassination of General Min and General Liartiarski, has produced such a feeling of resentment at Peterhof that the spectre of a dictatorship has been revived.

The government, it is said, can only rely on force to fight the terrorists, as the public press, which might be expected to manifest a revulsion of feeling against the crime which sacrificed the lives of a score of innocent persons in the attempt to murder a man who personally had not given cause for offence, remains coldly indifferent. Only the Novoe Vremya and the official Rossia denounce the terrorists.

Hundreds Under Arrest.

The conclusions of the liberal press are summed up in the charge made by the Rech that the government alone is guilty and responsible for what has happened.

The police have made hundreds of arrests since Saturday in an attempt to get their hands upon the participants in what is evidently a far-reaching conspiracy, but thus far all that has been definitely established is that two of the men who sacrificed their lives in the attempt on the Premier arrived here August 23 from Moscow, where the organization is supposed to have its headquarters, accompanied by two women.

A passport bearing the name of Sophie Larinoff, a peasant from Penza Province, was found on the girl who was arrested for the murder of General Min.

Prince Nekeshidge, who was one of the victims of the attempt on M. Stolypin's life, was the inventor of an armored automobile which is for use in the warfare against the revolutionists.

KILLS WOMAN WHO FAILED TO BE TRUE TO HIM

Shoots Another Woman, Then Tries to Kill Himself With Last Shot.

FIRED SHOTS IN CROWD

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. Returning from a year's voyage to find that the woman who had sworn to love him had transferred her affections to another, Martin Winterstein, a Swedish sailor, to-day shot and killed Mrs. Annie Larson of No. 184 Henry street, Brooklyn, and perhaps mortally wounded her cousin, Mrs. Fannie Buhrun. Winterstein, blood crazy, then ran amuck in the street, firing his revolver at random into the crowd which gathered. With his last shot he tried to kill himself, but was prevented by a policeman who arrested him.

Larson is a fireman on the steamer Colon, which arrived on Sunday from Manila. When he sailed away from this port about a year ago he left Mrs. Larson in the little four-room flat where she was killed to-day and which Winterstein provided.

Living with her was her cousin, Mrs. Buhrun. Both women were comely and about thirty years of age.

Promised to Be True.

Before sailing Winterstein was promised by the woman that she would be true to him, but when he returned on Sunday he learned that there was another man occupying a place in Mrs. Larson's affections.

Calling at the flat about 6 o'clock on Sunday he demanded of his former sweetheart that she give up this man and return to him as she had promised.

She put him off and promised to see him last evening about 6 o'clock. She did not appear and Winterstein went back to his ship very angry. He returned to-day at an early hour. He was told by Mrs. Buhrun that Mrs. Larson was not at home. Going to the street he saw Mrs. Larson at the window, however, and again entered the house.

Mrs. Larson was sitting at the breakfast table.

"Give me my answer!" he shouted.

Mrs. Larson stepped back in fear, saying, "Come back later. It's too early to talk of such things now."

"I've already waited too long," said Winterstein, and drew his revolver and shot the woman through the heart.

Tried to Kill Himself.

He passed at once into the bedroom adjoining where Mrs. Buhrun was dressing. He fired three shots into her breast, but did not kill her. Then he rushed into the street, firing at random. He reloaded his revolver twice. With his last shot he tried to shoot himself in the mouth, but Policeman Kelly of headquarters grabbed the gun from his hands.

At police headquarters Winterstein expressed no regret for his act. He said he shot Mrs. Buhrun because he blamed her for a good deal of his trouble. She was taken to the Long Island Hospital.

MIRROR GUIDES HAND OF SUICIDE

FRANKLIN, Mass., Aug. 28.—Standing before a mirror Albert E. Rockwood committed suicide to-day by slashing his throat with a razor. After committing the rash act he walked through the sitting room and kitchen and fell out of the rear door of the house, where he expired. He was forty-five years old. Since the death of his wife he has been despondent.

AMERICAN'S GUESTS SEE WONDERLAND

Thousands Having All-Day Outing at Big White City by the Sea.

TWO BIG EXCURSIONS

As guests of the BOSTON AMERICAN, thousands are enjoying an all-day outing at Wonderland, the big white city at Revere Beach, to-day, and there has been no larger crowd, with the possible exception or two, since the popular amusement resort was first opened. In addition to the thousands who entered the gates on tickets clipped from BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN, there were two big excursion parties.

One of these was the ten thousand members of the Boston Elevated Mutual Aid Association, and every attraction in the park was generously patronized. Of course, the Chutes and the fantastic "Fatal Wedding" were the most popular attractions on the grounds. Free tickets to both the Chutes and the "Fatal Wedding" were printed in the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Fun for Youngsters.

The free entertainment provided in the circus ring is a good one, and the clever trained poodles are especially delightful to the children. The youngsters seem to have everything their own way, to-day, too, for a reduced rate of admission has been granted for the afternoon to "Fire and Flames," one of the most important of the attractions in Wonderland, and everything that will tend to enhance the comfort and enjoyment of the guests of the BOSTON AMERICAN and the other excursionists has been provided.

The Baby Incubator exhibit will prove to be of especial interest to-day, for several events of unusual interest have occurred here this week. Two little Polish children who have been brought back to health and strength through the agency of the incubators were christened yesterday morning by Father Sullivan of Revere. Their names were as long and as unpronounceable as is usually bestowed upon babies of that nationality, and the two are sure to receive their full share of attention to-day. Perhaps the matron can tell you their names!

There are also two pair Syrian twins in the incubator exhibit. They are the first of that race to be patients in the hospital and are remarkably lusty youngsters. Certainly interest will not lag for the visitors in the incubator exhibit. There are fourteen tiny children being cared for, and every one is worth an hour's observation.

Plan Infant Reunion.

The company controlling the exhibit is planning to hold a reunion of the little children who have been cared for this Summer. This will probably be held during carnival week, and it ought to be a very interesting affair. Imagine a baby congress with the dean of the assembly possibly three months old!

Two big delegations of merry-making excursionists enjoyed themselves at Wonderland yesterday. One was made up of 7,000 employes of the United Shoe Machinery Company of Lynn, and 2,000 more employed by the Royal Worcester Corset Company of Worcester had a jolly time. The ballroom was crowded last evening.

This week and next promise to be the biggest excursion weeks that Wonderland park has known, and on Labor Day, which in other years has always been a record-breaker at Revere Beach, it is expected that there will be just about room enough in the big enclosure to accommodate the crowd that will surely storm the gates from early morning until late in the evening.

At last accounts, there was something doing at Wonderland park.

75 DAYS have elapsed since the BOSTON AMERICAN filed with the Attorney-General a formal information and petition that he bring suit to force the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the Boston & Albany Railroad to obey the law and to abandon the competing trolley lines which they have illegally acquired.

The Attorney-General has delayed action until the New Haven road has disposed of its holdings secretly to a "voluntary association" organized by itself which is not subject to the control of the State Railroad Commissioners.

Why did the Attorney-General delay?

HIBBARD DEBILL'S CASE CONTINUED

Hibbard DeBill, the man who was arrested in Melrose for having lottery tickets in his possession, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes in the Federal building to-day, and at the request of the government his case was continued one week.

CAMP MEETING OPENS.

HAMILTON, Aug. 28. The annual campmeeting under the auspices of the Methodist denomination opened here yesterday, hundreds of people from all parts of the State being present.

Editorial Expression

The Henry Siegel Co. Store service is conceded by expert retail authorities to embody all that is expedient and desirable—every feature that tends to diminish the exertion of shopping has been adopted—human ingenuity has almost exhausted itself in the perfection of detail that characterizes the system of deliveries—the delivery of parcels for their intended destination consuming less time than any delivery system in Boston. If you could pay a visit to our sub-basement and observe the infinite care exercised in assorting, checking and routing, it would prove a revelation to you. It's a distinct step forward in retail delivery service that is unparalleled and unique. And this is merely one detail that goes hand in hand with the maintenance of a high standard of merchandise at lowest prices—merely an instance of the intelligent initiative that makes this a store of real helpfulness to a constantly increasing clientele.

ZIN-ZIN-NATI AND PRINCE OF PILSEN RETURN

Same Old Rubicund, Rollicking German as Ever, With New Chorus.

He's the same old rubicund, rollicking Prince of Pilsen, the perennial favorite.

"Vas you efer in Zin-zin-nati?" was just as good at the Tremont last night as it "efer vas." Jess Dandy was there as the Prince. Pauline Guzman was there as the witching widow. And several other favorites and some new candidates accompanied them in the return of Pixley & Luders's tuneful musical comedy, whose songs and music have been sung and whistled probably from "Zin-zin-nati" to Pilsen and way stations.

"The Prince of Pilsen" is here for two weeks under management of Henry W. Savage, and staged, as usual, by George Marion. There was an unusually large hot weather audience, and applause was quick and constant. Jess Dandy, who must think and dream in Dinkelspiel talk by this time, was as Pilsener as of old. His topical song, "Imagination," was encored till Jess came to the footlights and pathetically explained that he didn't "Got no more singen."

Among the new entertainers in Pilsen is Albertine Benson as the Vassar Girl. Miss Benson is a Chicago girl, tall, graceful, pretty and with good singing voice. In the second act, when she comes on in a striking purple-robed hunting costume, she was especially effective. "The Message of the Violet," one of the most characteristic Pixley & Luders bits, gave Miss Benson and Henry Coote (Lieutenant Wagner) the usual opportunity for pretty love making, combined with melodious music. George Lydecker plays the real Prince. His voice is remarkably clear and sweet. In the "Tale of the Seashell" Lydecker and Marie Welsh as Nellie Wagner received hosts of encores.

Mabel DeLacey, who can dance almost faster than the eye can see, made a hit in "The Song of the Cities." She is the Dixie girl. Then Ida Stanhope, as the Boston girl, duplicated it with her Camille Clifford walk.

'MISS NEW YORK, JR.' VISITS COLUMBIA

If yesterday's show at the Columbia is a sample of the other shows to play that house this season, Manager Farren is to be congratulated. Never did a burlesque company work with such vim and briskness to make an entertainment successful as did [illegible] associates in the "Miss New York, Jr." company. Charles Burkhardt, as Lasalnsky, was never so droll and funny and his crazy little slide and [illegible] legs served to make more fun than a circus, and in addition he gives an impersonation of a jolly and sportive Hebrew that is worth going a good distance to witness.

The olio includes the Majestic Musical Four, Eleanor Revere and May Yuir, who danced and sang themselves into the graces of the audience, and the Velmars, whose gymnastic feats were wonderful. Friday night the amateurs will begin their season and then the fun will be on in earnest.

PARKS AND WATER TRIPS STILL POPULAR

There is no let-up in the tide of travel to Bass Point, Nahant, as the season wears on. The many varied forms of amusement and entertainment at the Point never were more highly appreciated. Boats leave hourly from Lincoln wharf.

In order that the last week of the season at Greater Paragon Park may be the biggest of the Summer, to every person buying the 100th ticket of admission to Paragon Park there will be given a strip pass admitting them to every show on the grounds. These strip passes are worth $2.50. Every ticket of admission to Paragon Park is numbered, and the tickets on the even hundreds are the prize winners. The holder of a double zero ticket must call the attention of the ticket taker to it, and he will be allowed to retain the ticket instead of it being taken up, as usual. It must then be presented at the administration building, where it will be exchanged for a strip admitting the holder to every show on the grounds. The scheme will be in operation for the remaining six days of the season, beginning to-day.

Norumbega Park's stage attractions this week are Bellman and Moore, the Three Deltons, the Unusuals, Henry Clive in his magical monologue, and the Komograph.

This is a record breaking season for tourist business to Nova Scotia, via the Dominion Atlantic Railway Line. Every outgoing sailing of the Prince George and Boston has been crowded to its capacity. For all information, staterooms, tours, etc., call at the company's city office, No. 228 Washington street, or Long Wharf (foot of State street).

The steamships to Cape Ann and the interesting fishing city of Gloucester are crowded with delighted passengers daily and Sunday when they leave the north side of Central wharf. The round-trip fare is but seventy-five cents. Nowhere is there such "oceanic" enjoyment for many times the money.

The gold cash prizes offered by the management of the fishing steamship are attracting many of those who took the remarkable trip solely for the enjoyment of the delightful trip down the harbor. The King Philip leaves Commercial wharf daily and Sunday for the deep-sea fishing grounds.

MOTHER WEEPS FOR PRISONER

With tears in his eyes and with his mother weeping and clinging to his neck, Dr. Francis B. Conway, the letter carrier arrested for robbing the mails at the West Newton street station, stood before United States Commissioner Hayes today, while arrangements were made to continue the hearing. Cornelius Conway of No. 26 Brookline street, Cambridge, father of the young man, was in the room.

Conway's case was continued to next Friday, and he was admitted to $1500 bail. It was furnished by his father.

Since Conway's arrest the father and mother have met him for the first time in three years.

U. S. TUG FOR NEWFOUNDLAND

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 28.—The dispatch of the U. S. navy tug Potomac to Newfoundland is understood here to be for the purpose of towing American fishing vessels and clearing channels for [illegible] the ice, if frozen, as in previous years

"CAPE COD FOLKS" SMACKS OF SALT AIR AND IS GIVEN HEARTY WELCOME

New Rural Nautical Drama Seen for the First Time.

Boston Theatre Crowded and Play Is Warmly Commended.

A welcome as hearty as it was spontaneous greeted "Cape Cod Folks" on its first production on the reopening of the Boston Theatre last night. The play fairly smacks of the salt-laden breezes of the Cape, and, somehow, it seemed eminently fitting that the powerful character portrayal should first be greeted at the famous playhouse which has been the home of those other strong glimpses of New England life, "Shore Acres," "The Old Homestead" and "Way Down East." For "Cape Cod Folks" is much along the same lines and bids fair to take as conspicuous a place in the hearts of New Englanders.

The story is fascinating in its strong combination of love, politics, comedy, tragedy and true-to-life character portrayal, and all coupled with scenic effects which are far and away out of the ordinary. The shipwreck scene, indeed, was last night recognized as a masterpiece in a line which is as thrilling as it is difficult of adequate presentation. The story centres about the love affairs of Emily Hungerford, a young society woman of Boston, who attempts to hide herself as teacher of the village school in Provincetown, and is full to the brim of situations which are of deep heart interest. The scenes are all laid in the town at the end of the Cape, and the sea plays an important part.

If Cape Cod folks took exception to Sarah P. McL. Greene's novel, in that it was a bit too true to life, certain it is none of the most critical can take serious exception to the very pretty dramatization of the book. For save in one or two minor details, the play as presented last night will appear to anyone familiar with the quaintness of the far end of the Cape, as no exaggeration in its character portrayal.

There is a deal to interest the younger generation in "Cape Cod Folks." The village school will be a delight. And for the especial gratification of the school children the management offers a speed launch which will be presented to the school child who writes the best essay on the lesson of the play.

PALACE RESUMES WITH A BIG SHOW

The Palace Theatre, brilliant in a new dress of crimson, white and gold, opened its regular Fall and Winter season yesterday with Bob Manchester's Crackerjacks Burlesque Company. This is the first of the famous "wheel" shows to play the house. They presented two laughable skits, "A Society Whirl" and "Nature in Marble Hall," both of which are full of laughable situations, good comedy, charming music and up-to-date specialties. Bob Van Osten heads the company, with Mike Nibbe, Will Bowers and Ruby Leoni, one of the handsomest women on the stage. The olio presents Smith and Baker, singing and dancing comedians; Nibbe and Bordeaux, comedy sketch team; Dora Denton, singer of coon songs; the Millard brothers, trick and fancy bicyclists, and Bowers and Curtis in a novel sketch, "The Yankee and the Maid."

INDIANS A FEATURE IN WILD WEST PLAY

Indians, cowboys, army officers, swords and gun-play are features of the play "Custer's Last Fight," a howling melodrama, played at the Grand Opera House yesterday by a very capable company. The piece gives a vivid picture of frontier life during the Indian outbreaks, and the thrilling scenes and grand climaxes make it acceptable to the most critical lover of melodrama. It has been given in Boston before.

The role of Buffalo Bill is admirably handled by Charles F. Keane, whose portrayal won for him great applause. George L. Kennedy, as Yellow Hand, and Miss Dorothy M. Lyons as Louise Ramsey gave Mr. Keane excellent support throughout the entire play.

Many Playhouses Open Their Doors Next Week

Sale of seats for "Not Yet But Soon," Hap Ward's new comedy, opened at the Globe ticket office yesterday, and judging by the first day's sale he will have a big week's engagement, beginning Labor Day afternoon.

The opening of the Orpheum on Labor Day will afford an opportunity to become acquainted with the vaudeville entertainments, under Percy Williams's direction. The leading attractions are Arthur Prince, the English ventriloquist; Edna Luby, the mimic, who is to be a member of Lew Field's company; the Empire City Quartet and Fred Karno's London Comedy Company in its "Night in a London Music Hall," given in pantomime. The box office at the Washington street entrance will be opened to-morrow.

Beginning with a special holiday matinee on Labor Day, Wright Lorimer will open his season at the Colonial on Monday in the always beautiful romantic drama, "The Shepherd King." The sale of seats will begin on Thursday, August 30. Mr. Lorimer's company this season includes Carl Eckstrom, Ethelbert Hales, Mark Price, Daniel Gilfeather, Samuel Forrest, William Mason, Marie Shotwell, Lorena Atwood, Margaret Hayward and Marian Ward. It is announced that special performances of Ibsen's "The Wild Duck" will be given on Thursday, September 6, and Thursday, September 13.

The season at the Hollis Street Theatre begins Labor Day, when "The Virginian" will be offered for two weeks. This will be the third time here for this dramatization of Owen Wister's powerful story of the pioneer West. Dustin Farnum will again be seen in his virile impersonation of Mr. Wister's chivalric cowboy, and Frank Campeau continues as the rascally cattle rustler, Trampas.

"The Lion and the Mouse" promises to open the new season of the Park Theatre most auspiciously next Monday. The dramatic element in the struggle between the trusts and the people has stirred the public as no play in years. Arthur Byron and Gertrude Coghlan will head a strong cast of Boston's favorites.

For the first time in many days the Castle Square is closed to the public. But only until next Saturday, when the regular dramatic season will begin with a production of "Mistress Nell." Rehearsals are now in progress under the direction of William C. Masson. "Mistress Nell" will be continued through next week, and it will be followed on September 10 by Clyde Fitch's comedy, "The Girl with the Green Eyes."

"NOBODY'S DARLING" IS SENSATIONAL

It is a pretty sensational play, called "Nobody's Darling," that the Bowdoin Square company offers this week. The play tells a story of factory life, and the scenes include views of typical New York workshops. A factory fire with a thrilling rescue is one of the scenes. The cast is headed by Wilmer Walter and Miss Alice Thornton. Leonard Broughton has a good part as MacMillan, the Scotchman, and Edwin Denison is very clever as Joan Payne, the factory owner. The bill is for this week only, with a daily matinee and bargain prices for lady patrons. Next week Miss Charlotte Hunt will again head the company in the sensational play, "The Whitecaps."

AN OLD-TIME SHOW ON AT THE HOWARD

This week's show at the Old Howard makes one think of old times. Jack Wilson and his company in "An Upheaval in Darktown," are with the topnotchers on the bill. The great Albas in his slide for life on his head on a tight wire and his upside down undressing is another of the wonders. Lawrence and Harrington in songs, lanky Butler Haviland with imported ditties, Orth and Fern, three LaMaze brothers, Willie Weston, imitator; Black and Jones, song and dance; The Keatons in club swinging and hoop rolling; Murphy and Andrews and the Siddon brothers in a Celtic comedy act are among the worthy features.

'VANITY FAIR' COMES TO LYCEUM THEATRE

Success seems to be the keynote at the Lyceum, where Bob Manchester's famous Vanity Fair company presented themselves last night. "Vanity Fair" has an added novel scenic feature entitled "The Birth of the United States, or The Declaration of Independence." Never before in burlesque was such a costly spectacle offered in conjunction with high class vaudeville acts. The opening musical extravaganza is entitled "On the Fall River Line," and "Our Georgia Rose" follows a fine olio.

FIND BODY OF MAN IN WATER

The body of an unidentified man was found afloat in the water near the South Bay tower of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad early to-day. The dead man was apparently about sixty years of age. The body was taken to O'Donnell's undertaking establishment. The man was about five feet eight inches tall, light complexion and weighed about 150 pounds. On the body was a white shirt, black coat and striped trousers of good material, gray socks and lace shoes. From the condition of the body it had not been in the water long.

BELIEVE METEOR CUT HOLE IN LAWN

CASTLETON, Vt., Aug. 28.—An investigation of a deep hole in the front lawn of D. P. Guilder, which it is believed was made by a meteor early Sunday morning. The hole is six and one half inches in diameter, the edges are as smooth as if cut by a knife, and the opening is about eight feet deep, with some hard substance at the bottom.

MISTAKES HAPPEN TO LOVING COUPLES

"Mistakes Will Happen," a farce in three acts, was played by the John Craig stock company as its last production at the Globe Theatre last night to a big audience. It was the first time this piece has ever been given in Boston. The scene opens in Miss Mayland's room at Mrs. Price's boarding house. Miss MacDonald takes the part of Miss Mayland and does it well. Mrs. Price, the boarding house keeper, is played by Miss Ryan. Hunter Chase, the owner, finds fault with Mrs. Price because Miss Mayland allows a fellow-actor to spend some hours in her room. That he does this is told by Linda Kurz, the "Dutch" servant. The fellow-actor, Tom Genowin, whose marriage to Miss Mayland is announced to settle matters, is trying to sell a play he has written. He tries to interest Mr. Chase, but is unsuccessful. Mrs. Chase, who has a fondness for leading men, finally makes his acquaintance.

The second scene is the carriage house of Hunter Chase. Miss Mayland and Mr. Chase meet there, unknown to Mrs. Chase and Mr. Genowin. Mr. Genowin attempts to instruct Mrs. Chase in the art of acting while Miss Mayland tries to show Mr. Chase that Mr. Genowin's play is the best ever written and wants him to stage it. The couples discover each other and each make their mistake, after being chased from the barn by William Hawley, the English coachman, who is making love to Linda Kurz.

The last scene is the vestibule of Mrs. Price's house. The couples meet, accuse each other of being untrue, but after explanation are made Mr. and Mrs. Chase and Mr. and Mrs. Genowin make up on condition that Mr. Chase pays for staging Mr. Genowin's play. Linda Kurz and William Hawley are also taken into consideration and Mr. Chase makes a handsome settlement on them to shut them up and not tell all that they know.

BIG VARIETY BILL AT AUSTIN & STONE'S

"On the Boulevard" at Austin & Stone's Museum continues to be an attraction of absorbing interest. Leslie's pig circus and the "great trunk mystery" presented by Bellyea and Effie Lorraine are other head liners. Dugan, the clay modeller, and the soothsayers from India were seen in marvellous acts. Kendall, the diver, gave a splendid exhibition, also the prettily formed Frank sisters, in a physical culture exhibition. On the stage were the "Minstrel Maids" in new turns, and in the olio Cromer and Hawkins, the Tally-ho duo; James Maxwell, illustrated songs; Jewell and Postello and electric vaudeville were the features.

'AS YE SOW' RESUMES ITS BIG SUCCESSES

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 28.—Rev. John Snyder's play, "As Ye Sow," opened its return engagement at the Jefferson Theatre last evening, with the house crowded to the doors and hundreds turned away. Messrs. Brady and Grisner are planning to take the play to London.

JUNIE M'CREE REVEALS SLANG OF NEW ORDER

In "The Man From Denver" at Keith's He Depicts Victim of Drugs.

"The Man from Denver" is at Keith's this week, and he has in his repertoire the funniest bunch of slang sayings uncorked in the Hub in many a day. Junie McCree is the Denverite, and if he doesn't make you sit up and take notice, then you are one of the few people who hate to risk laughing in the hot weather for fear of causing perspiration.

McCree depicts a Western character in the playlet. It is of a dope fiend, and he gives every facial expression and mannerism of a person addicted to the drug habit. He is supported by a good company, which includes Joseph Stanhope, Langtry Ashton and Bessie Moulton. This act is not the only blue ribbon winner on the program. Claire Beasey's cats, which perform in a most astonishing way, are a big hit with the women and children. The play bill announces them as the cleverest felines in the world, and no person who sees them go through their stunts will doubt for a moment that they are the best ever.

This is the farewell week of the Fadettes Woman's Orchestra, and they are giving a "special request" program. Their program winds up with "A Day at the Circus," which is one of the finest descriptive compositions ever played by a band of musicians. The rest of the bill is very entertaining, the Doherty Sisters, pleasing comediennes; Austin Walsh, in his "sight seeing" auto specialty; Carson and Willard, German comedians, and the Empire Comedy Four being other hits.

WOMEN MAY SEE NELSON AND GANS BATTLE

FIGHTERS LET UP IN TRAINING

SEATS FOR WOMEN IN FIGHT ARENA

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Aug. 28.—Special arrangements have been completed by which the enthusiastic women fight fans, who are daily visitors to the training camps of both pugilists, will be provided with seats in the great arena on Monday, the day of the battle.

Thirty thousand seats have been built to accomodate the crowds. The pavilion is practically completed.

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Aug. 28.—With the big fight between Battling Nelson and Joe Gans only one week off, this town to-day became a great maelstrom of excitement.

All business now depends on the fight, and all dates are made with the fight day as the main point of reckoning. Even the two fighters showed the effects of it, for they lightened up their training to some extent.

This week, in fact, is likely to be devoted to plenty of outdoor work by both of the boxers, as they have arranged for a few days of work under the glare of the sun, which will accustom them to it by the time they appear in the ring.

Nelson Looking Well.

Johnny Reid, who is here looking after the interests of Lundie, who is to meet Jack Clifford in the preliminary contest next Monday, considers that there never was a time in Nelson's career when he worked harder or looked better than the present.

"I am inclined to think that neither Nelson nor Gans is within a few pounds of his ring weight now. Each of them was forced to let up in his work last week, as too much speedy reduction of flesh was not good, and I have no doubt that each has gained considerable," said Reid.

"It seems to be a part of the program at each camp to give out from day to day that the men are at or below weight. It is one of the traditions of fightdom that 'the other fellow' is discouraged when he hears how easily 'the other fellow' is complying with all the conditions of this fibbing.

"It seems to me that many of the bets that have been spoken of around here are on the same order as the ultimatum issued from certain quarters. They are largely vaporiferous. If I were to judge by my own observation, I should say that the Gans-Nelson match is not going to be a betting fight as the pool-sellers say. I may have occasion to alter my opinion later, however. I heard of one genuine bet to-day, and the circumstances suggested that some brand new fans of this mining district are not as keen about odds as are the old dyed-in-the-wool sports of large cities."

Big Bet on Bout.

A man named Frank Horton, who is interested in the Daisy Mine, bet an even $2,000 that Nelson would win, Proprietor Casey of the resort where Gans is training taking the other end. Horton is evidently a firm believer in Nelson and he announced that he had $10,000 to bet on the Dane at the same price, to wit, even money. Casey said he would see what could be done about it, and in the meantime Horton learned from some source that Gans was a strong favorite. A great white light immediately struck him and he showed by what followed that he had improved his education in things sporty. He sent word to Casey that he was willing to back Nelson to the extent of $10,000, that he wanted the prevailing odds, which on paper are 10 to 9."

NEW YORKERS TO BET ON GANS

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—So strong is their faith in Gans's word that "Honest" John Kelly expresses his willingness to wager $5,000 to $4,000, and John Considine has as much to put up at the same odds, that the negro champion will win, because the latter has telegraphed that he will win sure in his fight with Battling Nelson on Monday. Word has also been received from A. F. Lincoln of Seattle, Wash., that Gans has on deposit there several thousand that he will wager on himself.

GANS MUST WIN BY 15TH ROUND IF AT ALL

—AL HERFORD

BALTIMORE, Aug. 28.—"If Joe doesn't win in fifteen rounds it will be a tough job for him to keep Battling Nelson from wearing him down," Al. Herford, the man who made Joe Gans the champion lightweight of the world, offered this sage bit of dope for the men who may get a chance to wager some money on Joe's chances with the Battler when they meet Labor Day at Goldfield, Nev.

"Joe is not as fast as he used to be," said Herford, "and besides he has not taken the best of care of himself. Of course he will train, because if there is one man in this world he wants to beat it is Nelson, who has been running away from him for over a year. But Nelson is young and fast, and will work hard. If Joe doesn't cross him over within the first fifteen rounds it's going to be hard work for him to get the decision.

"Should Joe lose he will have $10,000 for a nest egg. If he wins he will have that and at least a season's bookings in the Western vaudeville and burlesque, wherever there is a big fight on, and where he will be able to pick up a nice bit of easy money besides."

2:09 TROT WILL BE READVILLE FEATURE

PROBABLE WINNERS AT READVILLE

Argot Boy, first; May Star, second; Phalla, third.

READVILLE, Aug. 28.—With Crabtree's Nutboy in the stable this afternoon, it seems to be up to Ed. Geers to carry away the money in the 2:09 class, trotting, with Lady Hamilton. Mainsheet, the stallion of Al Thomas's string may carry away the second money.

The anticipated meeting of Nutboy, the Massachusetts stake winner, against the cracks of the trotting turf, Mainsheet and Lady Hamilton will not happen, as Nutboy was withdrawn. Eight scratches have been made in the event, leaving about that same number to fight it out from the flag drop.

Other races on the programme to-day will be the 2:09 pace and 2:14 trot.

WINDRIM KID WINS ANOTHER

WEST MANCHESTER, Aug. 28.—The Windrim Kid won the fifth race of the Quincy Cup series yesterday.

The Manchester led up to within thirty feet of the finish line, with the Bonidrei second and the Windrim Kid last.

Then the Manchester and Bonidrei stopped. They were against a strong ebb tide and the wind wasn't strong enough for them to hold their own.

The Windrim Kid, flaw hunting, struck a nice breeze that enabled her to carry a spinnaker right up to the finish line.

Yesterday's victory makes two races for the Windrim Kid, which represents the Corinthian Y. C., two for the Bonidrei, the Boston Y. C. challenger, and one for the Manchester, the Manchester Y. C.'s defender.

The Pilgrims don't think much of the Indians' game, and they will go after the latter this afternoon, bent upon scalping them to death.

Yesterday's encounter gave the Rathskellers a good chance to determine the calibre of the Naps. They didn't play championship ball, and Collins's pets feel confident that in to-day's and to-morrow's games, they will come out winners.

On the other hand, Napoleon Lajoie has a different version of the engagement. He says that his men were off their feed yesterday, and to-day will come back strong and show the Hub fans what the real article of championship bal looks like.

Well, they certainly will have to show us. They didn't win any medals by their playing yesterday, and if they hope to beat the "Lowlies" they will have to travel a good deal faster than they did in the opening struggle.

Judging by the game they put up yesterday, the Naps are not as strong an aggregation as the Ravens and the Tigers, who have but recently shaken the Hub dust from their feet.

If the Boston outfielders only get on to their jobs they may be able to aid their team in downing the Indians. In the past two or three games they have fielded like a lot of wooden images. They have stood stock-still and let the ball drop in front of them, without an effort to catch it on the fly. Stahl, who is usually a reliable fielder, has been guilty of this offence lately, and the fans are losing their high opinion of his playing.

The chief fault of Hoey in the field is his lack of judgment on fly balls. He covers a good deal of territory, but often has to catch the sphere away over his head, because he misjudged it.

"Dusty" Rhoades, who is one of three successful pitchers on the staff of the Indians at present, will pitch to-day for the visitors. He is in great form, and his elusive curves will probably prove enigmas to the Boston batters, as they have to all the other teams down the line.

The chances are that Cy Young will be on the firing line for the Bostons to-day. He is in great form now, and should be able to give the Indians a fierce contest for the final honors.

NAPS STILL IN THE RACE, SO LAJOIE SAYS

Napoleon Lajoie, manager of the Cleveland, American League Baseball Club, and considered the greatest ball player the national game has known, who is here with his team, considers the Naps still have a chance to win the pennant.

"We're not out of the running yet," said Lajoie. "This week's games, and the double-headers of Labor Day will practically tell the story. If we do well in this city, and win three out of five games from the Chicagos, the White Sox won't have such a cinch winning the flag as some people think.

"When we go back home Friday for the opening game with the Windy City team, we will probably have Centrefielder Bay and Third Baseman Bradley back in the game. With these two men in, and Ad Joss and Earl Moore, pitchers, once more in form, we will make a hard fight for the final honors."

M'COY MAY DON GLOVES ONCE MORE

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Norman Selby (Kid McCoy), who has been spending the Summer at Lake George with his wife, says that if the right man should come along he would get back into the ring again.

McCoy said to a friend: "I am in the pink of condition now and never felt so well before in my life. I weigh 157 pounds and there is no reason why I should not be better in the ring than ever before."

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

J. E. F., Danielsonville—The umpire was wrong. If the ball struck the bat and rolled fair it is a fair ball, even if the batter did not strike at it.

BAY STATE A. A. MAY ARRANGE A VANDERBILT ROAD RACE TOUR

BY J. C. KERRISON.

It is quite probable that a tour to the Vanderbilt road race in October will be arranged by the touring committee of the Bay State Automobile Association. A year ago such a plan was considered, and several cars did make the run, but no general tour was mapped out. There are many motorists in this section who would like to tour to both the elimination and the final of the Vanderbilt. Two such tours are, of course, not looked upon as either advisable or possible. Still there is a strong probability of a tour being mapped out and conducted to the big event in October. If arrangements are made ahead and a sufficient number will not only signify their intentions of going, but also stand their portion of the cost of arranging the tour and reservation of accommodations, there is no question but what Chairman Gilmore and his members of the touring committee would readily do their share of work and arrange matters so that one can tour and witness the greatest road event ever held in this country.

Mayor Becker, of Milwaukee, is now endeavoring to fracture the Cleveland-New York record. He was to leave Cleveland last evening, and expected to make a record run to the great metropolis.

Special meetings have been held by the town councils of Middletown and Portsmouth, R. I., to take action to prevent speeding by automobile owners from various sections of the country. Two arrests already have been made, and hereafter every violator of the speed law will be placed under arrest and held for trial.

Fifteen miles an hour is the speed limit. The roads of both towns have been measured for timing drivers.

Portsmouth has sworn in a dozen special constables, who have been supplied with stop watches, revolvers and badges.

Some of these special officers are stationed in trees night and day, so that automobiles approaching either from Newport or from the north are under watch before they enter the measured roads.

Telephone boxes have been erected, to give the next observation station warning in time to hold up the violators.

A forty-horsepower runabout is to be added to the list of National cars for the season of 1907. This company will this year make its own engine with the inlet and exhaust valves on opposite sides of the cylinder. The body will be of aluminum. A new system of ignition will be used. The horsepower of the present six-cylinder is to be increased considerably, and will be rated at 85-90, whereas it now is rated at 60 horsepower. The wheel base will be lengthened to 125 inches.

* * *

In speaking about the eight cylinder car which his company will use in the Vanderbilt elimination, President Briscoe of the Maxwell-Briscoe Company recently said:

"I am exceedingly satisfied with this eight-cylinder car. It has the speed and the balance to make it easy to handle, and after a few adjustments and some minor changes it will be ready for the driver, J. Fred Betz, 3d, to try out for the course. This will not be for some days to come.

"Our work is only half done, however, for we have the twelve-cylinder racer to assemble still, besides the work to be done on this car. But both cars will be ready for us to make a selection and decide which one we desire to use in the elimination trials by September 1, as we had figured. In fact, I think both cars will be ready before that date."

SIXTH WON MATCH.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 28.—The opening day of the big military rifle shooting tournament of 1906 saw two scheduled events, the Columbia trophy match and the company team match. The Fourth Regiment, National Guard of New Jersey, was victorious in the Columbia match, while the company team match was won by the team representing Company H, Sixth Massachusetts Regiment.

HOW WOMEN MAKE IT EASY FOR THE MEN THEY LOVE TO MARRY THEM

By Dorothy Dix

A CORRESPONDENT asks:

"Is it not right for a woman to tell her love under certain circumstances, as, for instance, a case in which she feels sure of a man's affection, but pride or diffidence keeps him from speaking?"

Certainly, under such conditions, a woman would be justified in popping the question, though I am a little dubious about any man who is really in love waiting for the woman to take the initiative. Men are not prone to hesitate to ask for anything they want, and women make it mighty easy sledding for the man to propose to whom they mean to say "yes." They not only let down the bars that fence in their hearts, but actually get behind the balky suitor and shove him into Paradise.

It is a mean and minching thing for a man to force a woman to do the love making, and an offence that she duly takes out of him if he accepts the offer of her heart and mind, but undoubtedly if she sees Cupid going by her window without looking in she has the right to attract his attention if she can.

And all that most men need to make them fall in love with any particular woman is to be brought to believe that she has had the wondrous good sense, and taste, and judgment, and discrimination to fall in love with them. You recall that in Bernard Shaw's great satire on love, "Man and Superman," the hero goes through the play loudly and vehemently saying to the heroine, who is a cat, if there ever was one: "I won't marry you! I won't marry you! You needn't think that I will," but in the end he is led meekly to the altar.

Hobson's Choice

Nobody who ever really seriously thinks about love and marriage can fail to see that one of the most potent sources of misery in the world is the idiotic convention that forbids women to frankly seek their mates and marry the men they prefer instead of the men they can get.

As the matter is arranged now a woman has only a negative say so in the thing of most importance to her during her whole life. She virtually chooses a husband by the process of elimination and as she has got to eliminate from the two or three chances that comes her way, her choice is Hobson's choice. She has got to take one or the other of these men, none of whom may come up to her ideal, or fire her fancy, or correspond in any way to the husband of her dreams, the soul partner with whom she could really develop into a glorious happiness and womanhood, or else be an old maid.

Worse still, she has got to make her choice on the nail, because she knows that youth is the boundary line beyond which no man proposes except to the woman with money bags.

Of course the popular view is that if a woman doesn't like the kind of a man who asks her to marry him, she is free to leave him instead of taking him. That is true, but the vast majority of women want to marry. They want to have homes of their own, the companionship and affection of a husband, and the love of little children. To a woman no fate is so dread and drear as looking forward to a lonely life without home or ties of her own, in which she will be batted about from other people's houses, a derelict on the sea of existence.

Causes Unhappiness

It is woman's instinctive yearning for the fireside, coupled with her equally instinctive fear of loneliness, that has caused the sex to evolve the bitter philosophy, "It is better to be married badly than not to be married at all." And it is what makes a girl shut her eyes and marry the freckled faced, red-headed grocery clerk, who bores her to death discoursing on salt codfish, when she could spend her life in blissful adoration slaving for the pallid-faced musician around the corner.

I have no doubt that nine-tenths of the miserable marriages, and the scandalous divorces, have their origin in the fact that women cannot pick out the man they want to marry, but have to marry the man who offers himself. Anybody who has ever had to live in the house with a woman who even had a dress, or a hat, or a carpet that she didn't pick out herself and that didn't happen to strike her fancy, knows how much fretting, and irritation, and aggravation she gets out of it.

Certainly this discontent is immeasurably multiplied in the case of a husband, and it leads to nagging, and follies, and imprudence and all the other short cuts to sin and misery.

And it's all a custom, a foolish, purblind custom that hasn't an excuse for being, this idea that it is unwomanly for a woman to tell a man she loves him, and that she would like to marry him, if he entertains kindred sentiments toward her.

Luck, say I, to the woman who has the courage to pop the question to the man she wants, instead of marrying some man she doesn't want, and living a cat and dog life ever after.

Newest Materials for Baby's Dresses

MOTHERS who delight in making baby clothes put a wealth of work upon each tiny piece. Wee slips have tucks run by hand, the stitches seeming nothing but tiny puckers in the soft material.

And quaint little designs, that look as though a fine trace of embroidery in vine pattern were laid on, resolve themselves into waving lines of the tiniest, most exquisitely done briar-stitching.

It's pink for a girl and blue for a boy, after all, with "Little Boy Blue" to remember it by.

Pillow slips open at the back, but not at the ends. All sorts come, from the plain little ones, trimmed with only a cluster of fine tucks running across each side, to heart-shaped bits of beauty, embroidered in tiny, fine patterns.

Baby veils are oftenest made of net, edged with lace, or with a plain little hem, exquisitely stitched.

French knots and briar-stitching, made to follow regular patterns, make the daintiest kind of an inexpensive trimming for dresses and slips, and for the finer sort of bibs.

There's a vast difference between christening robes. Some elaborate ones, all a mass of lace and ruffles, are less expensive than the simple but beautiful hand-made ones. But the hand-made ones are chosen nine times out of ten.

Dress-up bibs are bits of sheer lawn or nainsook or handkerchief linen, made up either with fine embroidery or with the narrowest of real Valenciennes insertion.

Paris has lavished more exquisite hand work than ever upon the new baby clothes she has sent over. Convent work, most of it, with every stitch set with such wonderful evenness that even under a magnifying glass each tiny flower or leaf is perfect, and yet has the individuality that distinguishes it from the finest of machine work.

As to caps, some wonderfully picturesque ones are promised, both elaborate and plain, but plenty of caps made of material to match the coats, or of white silk or linen, embroidered in English eyelet work, and worn over a wee warm cap of silk, will be worn by the smaller toddlers as well.

Don't attempt to use a striped material for a nightingale. This circular cut will make the stripes go "every which way," and figured stuff is as bad as if it has an up and down, for some of the figures will stand upon their heads.

Cashmere is the most popular material for baby wrappers and sacks, and for coats, too. Being double width goods, it cuts to very very good advantage even for those funny looking nightingales which are nothing in the world but a circle, with a smaller circle cut out for the neck, and the big circle slashed in four or five places.

Hearst's Boston American Pattern

Girls' Box-Pleated Dress

No. 5,237. This box-pleated model are always popular for girls, the long lines being peculiarly becoming. A charming design is here pictured in light brown French flannel. The waist and skirt are in one, box pleats being arranged in front and back. The closing is effected invisibly under the centre box pleat. A patent leather belt adds greatly to the smart appearance of the dress, although a belt of the material would be used. Mohair, cashmere or any of the fashionable plaids would develop well by this pattern. The medium size requires 3¼ yards of 44-inch material.

Winner in the Doll House Contest Will Be Announced Next Saturday

Watch for Name of the Winner of 'Happy House'

THOUSANDS of anxious little girls all over New England will soon know the name of the winner of the beautiful doll's house and all its contents.

The thousands of letters that came in at the close of the contest are being read as quickly as possible, and in a day or two now the best letter will be selected by the judges.

It's a pretty difficult task, to pick out the very nicest letter, so many excellent ideas on housekeeping were received. But the work is drawing to a close, and some little girl is going to be the happiest little girl in the whole of six States.

The Doll House Editor hopes the beautiful "Happy House" will fall into good hands. The girl who wins it will have cause to be very proud of it.

Letters will be printed until Saturday. You know it's quite an honor to have your letter selected for printing out of all the thousands received. If your letter has not yet appeared, do not give up hope. It may appear any day.

Here are some more letters from bright little girls who hope to win:

BESSIE McCONNELL—

One Bright Contestant and the Letter She Wrote

EARLY TO BED

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:
I should be very glad if I could win the lovely doll house. Just as soon as my children got up and had their breakfast I would wash the dishes and then dust the house. Then I should have to cook for dinner. In the afternoon I should dress my children up and take them for a walk. I should teach my children to be very polite, and have respect for their elders. They should always go to bed early.

M. PEARL DOW, ten years.
No. 27 Allston terrace, Brighton, Mass.

LOTS OF PLANTS

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:
If I had the doll house, I would keep it very clean and neat and keep it in nice order. I would wash and clean my rooms, and dust every morning. I would bake good bread and cake and would have lots of plants on the window sills. I would keep my children neat and clean, and I would put them to bed early, and then in the afternoon take them to the beach. They would have a nap every afternoon. I would take them to church every Sunday morning.

MARY MacMILLAN, thirteen years.
No. 26 Ball street, Roxbury.

EARLY TO BED

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:
How happy I would be to own "Happy Home." I would keep everything in perfect order. I would have the meals well prepared and serve them at regular hours. I would teach my children to be thoughtful and orderly, gentle and truthful. Each morning I would bathe and dress them and give them a good breakfast before going to school. Then I would have my house duties, such as dusting and putting the sitting room and the bedrooms in order. Then I would prepare the dinner. In the afternoon the children would play out, have tea at 6 o'clock and go to bed at 7.

GRACE ISABEL MARSHALL, 9 years.
No. 105 Davis avenue, Brookline.

ONE OF FOUR

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:
As I have three sisters about the same age as myself, I think we would have a good time with that doll house. I would keep house the same way that mama does. I would do the washing Monday morning, while my children were doing the dishes; Tuesday, I would iron, and Wednesday, I would do the cooking; Thursday, do the mending, sweeping; Friday and Saturday, clean and cook again. I would always keep the house tidy, and my children neat and clean. I would give the baby a bath every day, and the older children once a week.

ALBERTA SMITH, 10 years;
R. F. D. No. 1, Exeter, N. H.

CARRY POCKETBOOK

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:
If I had the doll's house, all I can say is I would keep it clean, and run the house in a systematic way. If my income was large, so much the better, but if moderate would try to be as economical as possible, by putting every dollar to good use. I would have my husband dress neat, also the children and myself; keep them clean, and give them plenty of out-door exercise; cook my own food when I was able, and do my own marketing, and lastly I would like to carry the pocketbook.

MARY KENNEDY, twelve years.
No. 359 North street, New Bedford.

GO COASTING

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:
This is my plan of housekeeping: On Monday rise early, wash clothes, call children at 7 o'clock, wash and dress for breakfast. After breakfast tidy the house and take the children to a cool place (in Summer) or (in Winter) dress them up warm and let them go out coasting. Tuesday iron; Wednesday, cooking day; Thursday, sewing day; Friday, housecleaning; Saturday, a little cooking, children's bath; Sunday, go to church. I would take much care of my children, and they would be taught to be polite. They would have all the enjoyment possible.

ALICE M. FARLEY, 11 years.
No. 240 Second street, Chelsea.

QUITE PUZZLED

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:
I have quite a large family of dolls and they are very good dolls. I give them plenty of exercise and I take them out in the morning for the fresh air. They are all healthy and well. My house is to small. I will have to enlarge it or perhaps you can help me by giving me a new one. I am puzzled what to do. I keep them all clean and neat and their little house clean and neat.

LETA COOPER, nine years.
No. 104 Prospect street, Newport, R. I.

Lavender Will Keep Your Clothes Fresh and Sweet

TAKE bags of lavender to put among underclothes in Summer to keep them fresh and sweet without overdoing it. The usual laundress at the various resorts is apt to use some powder or acid to bleach the clothes, which often leaves an odor to be counteracted, and can be readily overcome by this fragrant, wholesome herb.

CHAPTER XCVII.—Continued

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

JUST as they were driving off, to Olga's dismay, another cab came up with a passenger, pulling up in front of the station. Her pursuer would take this cab, no doubt, and follow. She peeped out.

The thin faced, clean-shaven man was already speaking to the cabman, pointing after the receding cab. Fortunately there was some heavy baggage on the top; it would delay pursuit a little whilst this was taken off and the dismounting passenger settled with the driver.

But would this be long enough for her to carry out her plan?

Olga's cabman was doing his best to earn his money. He rattled around One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street.

Past the big hotel and around the corner; then, according to instructions, he pulled up. Olga was out of the cab in a moment, almost before it stopped. Swiftly she shut the door and darted into the first opening, which was the alleyway of a saloon, while her cabman again whipped up his horse and went rattling across One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street.

Olga's desperate ruse had apparently succeeded. She was out of sight, and the cab she had left was proceeding as briskly as though it had never stopped, when the second cab turned the corner.

As it went past she saw her pursuer inside, his head half out of the window, watching the man ahead, evidently with no suspicion that he had promised his driver double fare to follow an empty cab.

Her plan had been successful.

Quickly Olga slipped out from her hiding place and hurried back to the station. A train that would take her back to Yonkers was just coming in. Even then she did not feel quite safe until she was in it and the train rushing out of the station.

CHAPTER XCVIII.
The Morning After

IN the offices of Wynter, Haggard & Co. there was a little feeling of excitement that morning.

Mr. Haggard had given a curt intimation to the senior clerk that Mr. Grieve had left the service of the firm.

"He presumed on his position so unwarrantably that I dismissed him on the spot. If—if he should attempt to show his face at the office again you are not to admit him," Mr. Haggard said.

.. could not be said that any one of the staff of clerks appeared sorry.

They had disliked and despised Grieve, the fellow-clerk; they had disliked and feared Grieve, the ex-clerk, promoted over their heads; during his brief regime as manager he had contrived to rub off a good many old scores by petty snubs and humiliations and needless fault-finding. Shuttleworth was jubilant.

"When he came in yesterday noon and talked loudly to the boss as though he thought he'd bought the place, I had a notion he wasn't going quite the right way about it with a man like Haggard, who's a bit short in temper, if he wanted to keep his place—though I wouldn't have dropped him a hint for the world. Only too glad he has come a cropper! Any one would have known he couldn't carry his corn," said that facetious gentleman.

It was the epitaph of Grieve in the office where he had so long plodded and plotted and schemed and had gained so little in the end.

In the inner office Haggard sat. He had turned up at business that morning as usual, and except that he was a little paler, his mouth a shade more grim and set, there was nothing in the man's appearance to give a hint to the casual observer of the intense mental strain through which he had passed since he entered the doors of the Arabesque Theatre last night—perhaps that was because he kept such a tight rein on himself.

In the privacy of his room, where there was less necessity for self-repression, the natural man showed through the mask; it was easy to see then how his nerves were on the rack, and how fear was his familiar.

He started at any loud noise in the street outside; he kept looking nervously about him; more than once he walked stealthily and on tiptoe to the closed door and listened as though he could not rid himself of a fear that his clerks might suspect something, and were watching to entrap him.

He had told the senior clerk that he had dismissed Grieve as a result of deliberate calculation. Otherwise they would naturally have wondered why the manager never came near the office.

Foul Play

It had seemed simplest to say that he had sent Grieve about his business.

There were one or two newspapers lying on his desk; Haggard had devoured every word they said on the affair at the Arabesque feverishly that morning. The papers drew attention to the occurrence in daring headlines, but they had little information to give.

"Death in a West End Music Hall: Foul Play Feared" was one heading, and the paragraph below it was as follows:

"Just at the moment of going to press information reaches us of the tragically sudden death in a box of one of the audience at the Arabesque last night.

"After the audience had left the building the attendants discovered a gentleman in one of the boxes who still sat apparently looking down at the stage. Thinking that the visitor might be asleep, the attendant touched him, and then discovered that he was dead.

"From a card found on him it appears that the deceased's name was J. De Graves, and inquiries have elicited that he was a gentleman of means, staying at the Rillington Hotel.

"The police are very reticent about the affair, but it is alleged that the unfortunate gentleman's death may not have been due to natural causes. It appears that Mr. De Graves was in company with another person, who left the music hall before the performance was over."

"The inquest will be held this afternoon. The police are meanwhile engaged in sifting the affair."

"What will they find out at the inquest?" Philip Haggard asked himself with white lips.

"The inquest will be held this afternoon," was the concluding sentence of the paragraph.

"What will they find out at the inquest?" Haggard asked himself feverishly.

He sat there alone in the privacy of his inner office, trying to map out a definite course of action.

If only the dead man were not identified as Grieve, he felt comparatively safe; there would be nothing to connect him with a Mr. De Graves, of whom no one knew anything.

If, however, in some unforeseen way the dead man was identified as Grieve, clerk in Wynter & Haggard's employ, he would be compelled to come forward.

In that case, to take a bold course from the first seemed the safe plan. He would say that he had never dreamed of connecting the dead man spoken of in the papers as Mr. De Graves, and staying at the Rillington Hotel, with his former clerk; that he had not known of Grieve's change of name.

And if questions—awkward questions—were asked he must deny everything—deny that he had been near the Arabesque that night. It was unlikely that the attendants there would recognise him again.

TO BE CONTINUED.

SAVING DEVICES FOR THE HOME

THERE are various small matters of household thrift that can be practiced by the careful woman who finds the old saying that there is a use for everything a true one.

Tablecloths which have really become too shabby for daily use can be easily adapted for other purposes.

One cannot better a breadcloth made from a piece of fine tablecloth from which the worn part has been cut out and the edges hemmed neatly all round; the worn pieces make excellent silver polishers, and their texture is so soft that it is impossible to scratch any plain metal surface. If the ugly worn place is, as often happens, in the middle of the cloth, cut the cloth in half and use the two small cloths thus obtained for the kitchen table.

There is nothing more useful than an old blanket for padding an ironing board; old pillow and bolster cases make invaluable cleaning rags, and the true housekeeper is fully aware of the value of what many people term "mere rags," says Home Notes.

Old sheets cut in strips, rolled tightly and then fastened with a safety pin, make splendid bandages, and every one knows that even in the best regulated house a bandage may be wanted in a hurry.

Bath towels worn in the middle can be cut in half, the edges hemmed, and used as hand towels.

For the Business Girl

NEVER get careless about your work and imagine that you are indispensable.

No one is indispensable, so you can't afford to do anything but your best.

No matter how small the undertaking is, do it as well as you can.

Don't get into the way of thinking: "Oh, this is so small and unimportant that it makes no difference how I do it!"

If you are not reliable in small things, you can't be trusted with big things.

Never be afraid of doing a little bit more than you are actually called upon to do.

It is through seizing every opportunity that you will reach higher things.

Be cheerful over your work. If you have to earn your living, you might as well be happy as "grumpy" over it.

Put your whole heart and soul into doing your work well, and treat all with whom you come in contact courteously.

During business hours attend strickly to the work you have in hand.

After hours you can enjoy yourself with a clear sense of duty done.

Never talk to outsiders about what goes on in the office.

You are in honor bound to look on your employer's business as something to be kept absolutely secret by you.

There are two things for a business woman to bear in mind during business hours—her duty toward her employer and her self-respect.

If she keeps these always in mind, she is bound to do well.

Pimples and Blackheads.
Our New Remedy Produces a Cure in Half the Usual Time.

PIMPLES and blackheads have been described as "internal dirt" and this description contains much truth. You cannot lay claim to a high degree of refinement while you allow your face to be covered with disgusting blemishes.

In business, or in society, a man or woman finds a pimply face to be a bar to success. In business the best positions go to the man of good facial appearance, and in society the woman with a pimply face finds her circle of friends small indeed.

For 36 years the Woodbury Institute has successfully treated this trouble, and opened the door of success to thousands and thousands of afflicted people who had almost despaired of relief. Our new and perfect treatment now makes a cure possible in half the time formerly required, and success is assured in every case.

Write to-day for question blank and full information; or, better still, call and talk with one of our specialists. Consultation free.

WOMAN IDENTIFIES HER PHOTOGRAPH BY LETTER

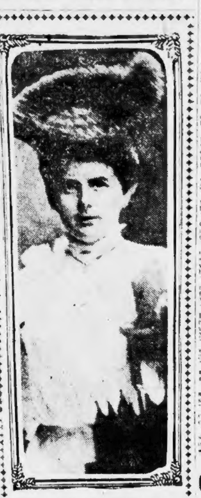
Incloses Little Tintype for Identification and Wins Saturday's Award.

It didn't take long to locate the original of the little snapshot of a woman shopper in last Saturday's AMERICAN. Although the lucky woman lives a long way from Boston she was promptly in the field yesterday morning to claim the daily award of $2.

The photograph was identified by letter from Mrs. Herman G. Holbrook of South Braintree. Her letter inclosed a little tintype of herself taken last Saturday. She wore the same gown and hat she had on when the Camera Man caught her on Winter street, early in the day.

There was no chance for mistake after a comparison of the tintype with the shopping snapshot and a check for $2 was speedily mailed the winner.

Moral: If you cannot call at the BOSTON AMERICAN office to claim the award when YOUR picture appears, send along a photo of yourself and the money will be forwarded to you.



The Original of This Snapshot Will Receive a Prize of $2.

20,000 WILL MARCH IN BIG LABOR PARADE

Twentieth Anniversary of Holiday to Be Greatest Celebration Yet.

The committee in charge of the Labor Day parade estimates that fully 20,000 organized wage-earners of Boston will be in line. The commemoration of the twentieth anniversary of labor's holiday will be the most momentous celebration in the history of organized labor in New England. Reports received by the State Branch, American Federation of Labor, show that the celebration throughout the State in all organized centres will surpass in point of enthusiasm and numbers any preceding Labor Day celebration.

John E. Potts, marshal of the Building Trades section division of the parade, announced his staff last night as follows: Chief of staff, John C. McDonald, Elevator Constructors' Union; aids, Dominick D'Alessandro, Building Laborers' Union; Carl W. Olin, Electrical Workers' Union No. 103; A. E. Pike, Hoisting and Portable Engineers' Union; C. A. Murray, Amalgamated Carpenters' Union; John J. Hynes, Sheet Metal Workers' Union No. 17; M. J. Young, Bridge and Structural Ironworkers' Union.

Drawings for positions by the three divisions of the parade—Central Labor Union, Building Trades section of the C. L. U. and District Assembly No. 30, K. of L., original—will be held Thursday night at Wells Memorial building. Marshal Potts of the Building Trades section division invites all building trades not affiliated with his organization to parade, stating that they will be entitled to equal rights in drawing for positions. The Building Trades section will display a new silk banner showing a building in the process of construction, with the inscription: "The Building Trades Section of the Central Labor Union, Organized July 30, 1906."

The probability is that the negotiations now on will culminate in the agreement that the Building Trades Council will form in line with the Central Labor Union. The council, however, has gone ahead with preparations for its own Labor Day parade and has received assurances that at least ten organizations affiliated with it will march, making a line of at least 1,000.

NEWS OF LABOR.

What is regarded as the biggest blow to the "open shop" advocates in this city for some time was celebrated by Sheet Metal Workers' Union No. 17 at last night's meeting in Paine Memorial Hall, when it was announced by Business Agent John F. Kennedy that the Wheeling Corrugating Company and Berger Manufacturing Company of this city had signed the union scale and had declared for the "closed shop." These are two of five firms which compose the Metal Ceiling Association, and it was stated that negotiations are under way to have the other three shops declare for union conditions. Parryism, as represented by the Employers' Association, was responsible for the five firms holding out, it was asserted, but the association did not fulfil its assurances that it could supply competent men, thus the desertion of two of the companies.

The union will parade 300 strong in the Building Trades section of the Central Labor Union division, in command of President John J. Hynes.

STATIONARY ENGINEERS.

Stationary Engineers' Union No. 16 is working hard for the appointment of David A. Chapman, a member of the union, as schoolhouse custodian. Joseph A. Nash, James S. Wilson and David A. Chapman were chosen a committee by the executive board of the union last night to wait upon the joint executive board of engineers' unions to-night in relation to this and other important business of the union.

John B. Moran and John Rice were appointed a committee to act in conjunction with the Central Labor Union executive board on all matters relating to troubles at a local theatre. It was announced that Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and President Martin T. Joyce of the Central Labor Union would be among the speakers at the mass-meeting of engineers to be held at Faneuil Hall Sept. 12.

LABOR NOTES.

The "Wage Earners' Club March" will be played for the first time to the Labor Day parade by the Commonwealth Military Band, under the direction of Professor E. W. Masters, escorting Bottlers' and Drivers' Union No. 22.

The committee on laws of the Building Trades Section meets to-night at No. 394 Washington street.

The committee in charge of the picnic of South Boston Grocery and Provision Clerks' Union, headed by Councilman Coogan, has distributed 1,500 tickets to South Boston children and their mothers for to-morrow's picnic at Caledonian Grove.

It All Depends on the PERCENTAGE

Conservative at FOUR Per Cent., Daring at SIX, Reckless at TEN, MURDER AT TWENTY AND HIGHER

You have heard a good deal of talk about the "CONSERVATISM OF CAPITAL."

It is largely TALK, and not facts, when you deal with organized capital of the criminal trust variety.

There IS such a thing as the conservatism of capital, in the old sense.

The careful business man, gradually and laboriously accumulating his fortune, IS CONSERVATIVE, AND HIS MONEY IS CONSERVATIVE.

But it is a different thing, as Americans are learning every day, with the capital THAT IS THE DRIVING POWER OF CRIMINAL CORPORATIONS.

It has truly been said by a man who thinks that modern, piratical capital is only conservative on a four per cent. basis, that it is very DARING on a six per cent. basis, RECKLESS at ten per cent., and ready to commit any crime at twenty per cent. and higher.

What trust capital will do in return for a sufficiently high profit has been illustrated by Brooklyn's street car trust lately. It will commit murder—that everybody knows—it will encourage riots, engage in actual bloodshed for the collection of money.

AND, AFTER MURDER HAS BEEN COMMITTED, IT WILL HIDE THE GUILTY MAN, as the Brooklyn Rapid Transit is now hiding the man guilty of murdering one woman in Brooklyn and fatally injuring another; as the Street Car Trust in New York City is guilty of hiding the man responsible for those killed on the elevated railroad some time ago.

In the case of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit this character of organized capital, changed from old-time conservatism TO MODERN THUGGERY AND MURDER, IS ALL A QUESTION OF PERCENTAGE.

You know that the Street Car Trust of Brooklyn charges ten cents for a trip, when the legal fare should be five cents.

The question involved in Brooklyn is the safety and the rights of citizens on one side. THE HIGHEST PERCENTAGE OF PROFIT ON THE OTHER SIDE—THE SIDE OF THE CORPORATION.

The Street Car Trust will tell you that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit earns a very small percentage on its capital. So it does. On some of its securities it earns no interest at all.

But the fact remains that the riots and the murders in Brooklyn represent the determination of a corporation to earn dividends on FIFTY MILLIONS OF WATER, which means an enormous interest—not less than forty per cent.—ON THE ACTUAL CAPITAL INVESTED BY THOSE THAT OWN THE TRUST.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit kills people in Brooklyn, assaults and maims scores, BECAUSE IT IS DETERMINED TO COLLECT INTEREST ON THE TENS OF MILLIONS OF WATERED STOCKS AND BONDS IT HAS ISSUED.

Capitalized honestly, or even HALF WAY honestly, according to modernized ideas, that railroad system could charge the legal fare of five cents—EVEN LESS THAN THAT FARE—and pay a large dividend.

But that would not suit the modern pirate. The kind of men who run public affairs and manage what they are pleased to call "conservative capital" to-day are criminals and highbinders, determined to take IMMEDIATELY out of the public pockets millions. They demand instantaneously fortunes far exceeding those that conscientious business men of the past have been glad to accumulate by lives of real work.

A sample of the determination to milk the public cow to the last drop, AND TO GET ALL THE MILK AT ONCE, is shown in the criminal watering of the Street Car Trust in New York lately.

AT ONE SINGLE DEAL A HUNDRED AND EIGHT MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WAS LOADED ON THAT ALREADY OVERCAPITALIZED AND WATERED CONCERN.

The managers of the concern—the criminals that direct it, kill passengers, ignore comfort and health—ARE DETERMINED THAT THEY WILL GET INTEREST ON THAT HUNDRED AND EIGHT MILLIONS OF DOLLARS.

You have seen what corporations will do that manage corporations in Brooklyn to get big interest on their watered capital.

You will see the same thing throughout this country as long as trusts are allowed to possess themselves of monopolies and to run them regardless of common sense or law or values.

You will learn that the conservatism of capital is an expression out of date. IT ALL DEPENDS ON THE INTEREST RATE. AND YOU, WHO ARE PAYING TWENTY, FIFTY AND A HUNDRED PER CENT. TO TRUST OWNERS, YOU OF THE PUBLIC, WILL FIND OUT THAT THOSE WHO GET THE INTEREST, AND MEAN TO CONTINUE GETTING IT, WILL DO ANYTHING UP TO ASSAULT AND MURDER TO ENFORCE PAYMENT.

Keep this in mind when you hear of "conservative capital," its rights and the virtues of those that speak for it.

A Fonetic Balad

Words by the Author — Spelling by the Government

By William F. Kirk

A LADY fair and willowy, with hair just touched with gray,
Was sitting with her husband in a house at Oyster Bay
The husband loved her dearly, as sometimes husbands do,
Because the genuine love light caromed from her eyes of blue.
"Please write a letter to me, sweet," the husband did enthuse,
"A letter that will cheer me ere I take my evening snooze."
The lady took her pen and ink, and scratched her gray-gold head,
And when she finished that there note, her loving husband read:

CHORUS

I luv yu nite and morning, I luv yu thru and thru.
There aint enuf in all the world that I kan do for yu.
I've lerned fonetik speling, as others will, I no,
When Rusevelt runs for President the third time in a ro.

LONG years rolled by at Oyster Bay, and he of whom I write
Was sitting in a tiny flat without no heat nor light,
The lady who had been his wife had travelled far away
From all the minor comforts to be had at Oyster Bay.
Now in his small apartment he is sitting all alone,
His hair is grayer now than hers, his heart is turned to stone.
His heart is turned to stone, I say, yet oftentimes it bleeds
When in the morning sunlight this haughty note he reads:

CHORUS:

I luvd yu nite and morning, yu no I told yu so,
But Teddy Rusevelt didn't run the third time in a ro.
So I sailed for Skibo Kassel and shall ne'er return to yu
Till yu rite a line and tell me that you luv me "thru and thru."

Dirtier, Not Busier or Better

(FROM PRACTICAL POLITICS.)

THE streets of Boston were never known before to be in such a dirty condition as they have been the past six months, and although the pay rolls at City Hall are supposed to indicate services performed, the streets do not show it. There is money for entertaining visiting Aldermen and Councilmen, and there is also money spent on rum bill in Boston hotels. All these incidents are specimens of a busier Boston, but to clean the streets, remove the dangers of disease and contagion, no effort is apparently made. A ball game at Old Orchard or a trip to New York to make arrangements for Bryan's visit are of more importance than keeping Boston's streets clean.

HOW chillingly the wintry blast
Adown the chimney whistles,
And how the ice-fringe, clinging fast,
From snow-bound roof-tree bristles!
Old Boreas is stern to-night,
But what care I for zero?
I'll pile the hearth with logs alight
And fiddle, a la Nero!

P. S.—'Twas some six months ago
The tale above was written;
Don't start your furnace fire; Oh no,
You will not get frost bitten.

HOW stingingly the swirl of snow
Greets our reluctant faces!
The mercury is shrinking low—
Down toward the bulb it races.
But what care we, enwrapped in furs,
As sleighbells crisply jingle?
He is a weakling who demurs,
Though ears and fingers tingle.

P. S.—The rhyme preceding grew
Last Winter, do not doubt it.
Don't get your ulster out, for you
Can get along without it.

IN "The Goddess of the Garden," one of the best vegetarian romances of the day has been written. The "goddess" is a large Onion, who is worshipped by a humble Turnip. The villain is the wicked Poison Ivy, and the complications of the plot are most ingenious. Eventually Turnip meets Onion face to face in an Irish stew, and——But we won't spoil the reader's interest.

Summer fiction is about down and out, and is as hard to buy just now as an ordinary sized straw hat. The Winter stocks are already being displayed, and the advance styles indicate that politics and business will be the fashionable topics.

"He balanced himself on top of the swaying mast. The wind whistled around him, but he stood in all the stress unafraid, until the wind began to whistle 'Waiting at the Church.' Then he quit." This extract from "The Bounding Billow" will show the daring character of the story.

"A Balloon Elopement" is the title of a charming love story by C. N. and A. M. Willieson, who have made the aerial field their own. The public is tired of motor car romances, and these authors, ever alert for novelties, have pre-empted the balloon. Needless to say, the adventures of Lady Hetty and Jack Jones are not very harrowing, and everything ends up nicely.

Nobody Hurries in Holland, Yet the Dutch Do Everything Eventually, Though Few Get Rich

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

MARRIAGE and maternity are popular occupations for women in Holland. "The Man" and I saw twenty couples married in one hour last Wednesday at the "State House" (City Hall) in The Hague.

We had been informed that Wednesday forenoon of each week was set aside by the Lord Mayor for these wholesale marriages of the people, and we presented ourselves there at 10:30, just in time to hear ten couples pronounced men and wives, and to see ten more couples enter the room and take seats in a semi-circle about the Mayor's desk.

Twelve more waited in the vestibule.

Each bride, save one, wore a black gown and a spray of orange blossoms in her hair and another spray pinned on her corsage at the left. One bride wore gray and one was swathed in a white tulle veil, through which her cheeks glowed like roses through a mist.

The bridegrooms were attired in business suits with the exception of perhaps a half-dozen, who sported Prince Albert coats.

The preliminaries were somewhat tedious.

The parents of both bride and bridegroom, if living, and in the country, and two additional witnesses, must sign the records before the marriage is legal in Holland. So the names of the six witnesses for each couple are called and the six signatures are affixed to two registers before the final brief service and last injunctions by the Mayor turn out a batch of ten brides in a half-hour's time.

The children of Holland are pretty, robust and lovable.

Little English Spoken

THEY are well nourished, well loved and well mannered. They are noisy, like all robust, growing young creatures, but they seldom stare rudely. While they exhibit a certain amount of childish curiosity toward strangers in costumes unlike those to which they are accustomed, I have never yet seen any exhibition of the ill-mannered "freshness" which accompanies a similar curiosity in American children.

This is true of them even in the remote villages. The phlegmatic tendency of the whole Dutch race may in some measure account for this, but I think the good counsels of the mothers have more to do with it.

The Holland people are quite satisfied with themselves, with their customs and their country. They wish all visitors well treated, but they are not interested in outsiders.

They are conscious of their wonderful centuries of culture and education and triumphs in literature and art, which made the Netherlands world-famous when wild Indians possessed America, and if they think of America at all it is as a far-away New World of very primitive people.

They have not taught their children much about the New World. But with all our vast and boasted school system in America I doubt if three high school or seminary graduates in one hundred in America would tell one incident of value or give one fact concerning the history or present conditions of Holland.

That it is a small country, where the Dutch language is spoken, and where there are many windmills, would cover the extent of the knowledge of most American children under twenty years of age.

Therefore it should not surprise us to find an equal ignorance regarding America in young Holland minds.

"The Man" and I were told five years ago on our first visit here, before we came, that we would find English quite universally spoken. They told us so in London.

In the hotels and large restaurants in the chemists' and other shops of importance, there is usually one man or woman who speaks some English.

But we have in our search for information and directions entered a dozen places and stopped a dozen pedestrians without being able to find one English-speaking individual.

The police officers, the trolley conductors, the mail carriers and most pedestrians, like those in our own land, speak only the native language, and these are the people to whom a stranger in a hurry on the street most naturally addresses his queries.

Everything Is Slow

ASIDE from not speaking English the Dutchman of the middle or peasant class is slow of brain in his effort to understand the sign language of a foreigner.

One street urchin, selling postal cards, surprised us with his knowledge of classic American language at The Hague.

After shaking our heads persistently at his importunings, and saying "We do not understand," to his Dutch description of his wares, we passed on, and heard him ejaculate, "Skiddoo, twenty-three," in very good, plain accents.

At Scheveningue hotel (pronounce this word Scavening, and you will get it as nearly as the American tongue permits), the most famous and fashionable seashore resort in Holland, we found scarcely anyone stirring before 7 o'clock, and the porches and sidewalks being swept after that hour.

Breakfast is not an important event with the Dutch. Coffee, tea and rolls are set on the hotel tables, and you help yourself. There are only waiters enough to boil and serve your coffee in the morning, and the elevators do not run until 8 o'clock, even here in Amsterdam.

The photographer had not opened his studio yesterday at 8:30 when we called for our pictures. No one hurries here, yet everything is done, eventually. There is no neglect of duties, no laziness, no sloth and no hurry.

And they live long and prosper in consequence, though they do not become billionaires.
